MARRYING COUSINS.

The Tribal Formation of Human Society.

A report of the London Times made Mr. George Darwin say, in his paper on cousin marriages, that of 8,170 lunatics and idiots in various asylums in England and Wales, 4,308 are offspring of first cousins. Mr. Darwin corrects this fearful statement, which would make out that when cousins marry they have an even chance to bring forth idiots or lunatics—a fact which would be sufficiently apparent to the common mind to frighten cousins from thoughts of coupling. He says that what he did write was that the parentage of 4,308 of these 8,170 was ascertained with more or less accuracy, and that about 3½ per cent. of these were offspring of first cousins, and that out of 514 patients in Scotland, 5½ per cent were found to be offspring of first cousins.

We suspect that the attempt to scare cousins from thoughts of love by statistics of idiotic consequences has led to large exaggeration. If we reflect on the tribal formation of human society, and upon the marriages of kindred which that kept up, and upon the natural tendency of families to keep together in this way, we shall have to wonder that the marriages of blood relations have not turned all mankind to idiots and lunatics. Surely they would if the causes now so fearfully shown by statistics had always been operative. The Jews especially, would have been extinguished ages and ages ago, like the Aztecs. But figures, though they cannot lie, are most convenient to any purpose, and they who run greatly to statistical showings are liable to lose perception of truth.

Inasmuch as society has in this matter made the progeny a cause for interfering with instinct and inclination in marriage, and has actually gone so far in the State of Ohio as to forbid the marriage of first cousins, would it not be rational to widen the scope of its supervision a little and to exercise ordinary intelligence with regard to other marriages in which the physiological likeness of the parents, or the infirmities of one or both, give reasonable assurance of offspring of infirm minds or bodies? Marriages are being contracted and consummated continually, in the view of parents and society, which every intelligent person knows cannot bring forth healthy children. But parents throw the responsibilities of these on Providence, and when the miserable fruit is realized the preacher talks of His mysterious ways.—Cin. Gazette.

The Tomato.

It is not too early to begin to think about preparing for the next crop of tomatoes. The question was discussed at the late session of the Illinois State Horticultural Society, and some of the ideas there elicited may be of benefit to our readers. Mr. Kinney, of Rock Island, said he got his earliest by letting the plants spread out on the ground and not tying them. Mr. Bancroft, of Pontiac, said he got his earliest ripening tomatoes from the plants that were tied up. As to varieties, he thought the Canada Victor the best ever grown. Prof. Burrill said the best produced at the University garden were the Canada Victor. Mr. Gasson, of Lacon, finds that to cultivate the tomato successfully, was to hill up high, as a large amount of root is very essential. He trellises them up by a barrel frame, taking out most of the staves, leaving just enough for the framework for the hoops. Inside this frame the plant grows up, and spreading out is held by the hoops, sustained by the staves stuck in the ground. Mr. Kinney said he did not like deep planting of seeds, and transplants from the original bed, and never uses any water in the hot-bed. Dr. Hunter plants his tomato seed in hot-beds during the last days of January, and gave his method of treatment while in the hot-house. When set out in the field he thought they should be tied up.—Des Moines Register.

A LONDON journal, the Tobacco Plant, has a fine caricature cartoon, showing the Right Honorable Benjamin Disraeli as the great good Pan charming all the beasts; Mr. Bright as a lion, Mr. Lowe as a bear, Lord Derby as a watch dog, and other whigs and tories as wolves, foxes, pole cats, &c.

The others were well bunched five lengths behind at the half mile. At the end of the first mile the horses were well together, but gradually stringing out until the finish, Hutchinson and Limestone entering the homestretch, Hutchinson leading a length, but Limestone gaining to the finish, made a dead heat; Little Flirt third, beating Biloxi, Shillelah, Captain Jack, and Bob Britton. "THE CENTENNIAL."

Where the Exhibition is to be Held—A Review of Other International Exhibitions—The Success Which Has Attended Them—The Prospects for America's Great Exhibition—Discriptive Notes of the Buildings.

[Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, April 5, 1875.

Need I tell your readers that the site of the United States Centennial Exhibition is to be within the limits of that beautiful natural attraction of Philadelphia—the Fairmount Park. On the west of the Lansdowne drive as you ascend the first gentle eminence, on entering the Park, you discern the great Lansdowne plateau, a level plain 120 feet above the Schuylkill, and of ample space. This is the spot chosen for the Exhibition buildings, and no more suitable location could be found in all America. It is convenient and ready of access to the heart of a large seaport city, and it is also contiguous to the lines of the chief railroad feeders. On one side, within almost a stone's throw, is the Pennsylvania Railroad, and on the other the junction line that carries the traffic of the West and South to the seaboard. These facilities for exhibitors are to be still further increased, as it is the intention of the Pennsylvania Railroad to run a siding up to the Exhibition ground, and goods can then be deposited right before the doors of the main building. The avenues leading to the exhibition inclosure are being enlarged and improved. Street railways will be extended to the entrance of the buildings and visitors can avail themselves of this cheap—not so cheap as in your city, but it should be—and convenient method of transit to and from the exhibition. The failure of Congress to make an appropriation for the Centennial fund has had its effect in one way, and perhaps fortunately, on the designs of the Commission; the costly and elaborate plans of construction and ornamentation alighted upon, when the idea of an exhibition was novel, have been abandoned; the former, besides the expense, were found hardly practical enough for buildings which could only be used for the occasion.

The present designs which are all completed and, being rapidly carried into execution, have met the approval of all who have studied them. The ground was first broken for the Centennial buildings, last summer and since then, notwithstanding the unusual severity of the winter, rapid progress has been made; with the opening of mild weather thousands of men will be put to work on the various buildings. The workmen are all required to labor 14 hours and the contract binds the contractors to finish the work within limited time. Before entering on a rapid description of the buildings themselves as they are to appear in 1876, a few words about the pecuniary status of the Commission may be in order, to be able to draw inferences as to the success of the Exhibition. I will also review some of the statistics of those Exhibitions that have preceded ours. There are nearly $5,000,000 to the credit of the Centennial Board of Finance; of this $1,000,000 was an appropriation from the State, $1,500,000 by the City of Philadelphia, and the balance made up of subscriptions to Centennial stock and other private and public donations. Several States have made liberal appropriations for representation, and the Government gave $500,000 in order that the Departments may be properly represented. The financial condition is flattering and compared with that of other Exhibitions, there is no cause for despondency.

The "World's Fair" of 1851, which was the inspiration of the late Prince Albert, was held in Hyde Park, London, in the famous Crystal Palace building, and was the first real International Industrial Exhibition; it was financially a success, the amount of money cleared being nearly $1,000,000. The building, which became memorable by name, was wholly made of glass and iron, and cost $1,000,000; it took six months to construct it, and was the work of private subscription entirely, Queen Victoria heading the list with £1,000. The Prince Consort opened the exhibition, and it remained open during the summer months of 1851. Over 6,000,000 people visited it, the enormous number of 109,915 having passed through the gates in one day. The Exhibition, which is familiar to the eye from the numerous pictures of it, was 1,851 feet long and 408 feet wide and covered 19 acres.

The Paris exhibition of 1855, which was the next international exhibition, was held in the Palais Le'Industre, Champs Elysees—financially it was not successful, although the French Government guaranteed 4 per cent. of the expenditures, which reached the large sum of $5,000,000. It was estimated, however, that the amount of money spent in Paris by foreign visitors who flocked to see this exhibition, compensated for the loss. Over 4,500,000 people visited this exhibition, and it was opened by the Emperor Napoleon in person.

In 1862 the second London exhibition was given; this was on a scale commensurate with the advance made in the decade that had elapsed since the Crystal Palace Exhibition. It was one of the most wonderful congregations of materials and people ever witnessed. The site was South Kensington Garden, and the buildings alone covered 1,400,000 square feet of ground. Their total cost was about $2,300,000; the receipts aggregated $2,240,000. The materials used in the construction of the buildings of this exhibition were brick, glass and iron, the same as will be used in the Centennial buildings.

The Paris Universal Exposition of 1867 is the next in order of time, great International display. I had the pleasure of visiting this exhibition in the month of August of that year, at the time of the Emperor Napoleon's birthday. This exposition was formidable in conception and execution. The famous Field of Mars, which has so often been the secene of review of armies that have shaken the peace of Europe—was for once consecrated to the exhibition of the fruits of peace; the exhibition, which is perhaps, the most widely known of any, was an entire success. It cost $4,000,000, the Government and city of Paris giving $2,500,000 of this. The receipts showed a clear gain of $800,000. The plan of construction of the buildings of this exposition was unique, and at first was widely complimented, as one securing the best possible form and design for classification and competitive exhibition. The main building was a large flattened ellipse, nearly a mile in circumference; inside of this were a series of ovals diminishing to the center, from the central pavillion avenues radiated to the outer rim, like spokes to a wheel. The visitors in making the tour of each oval could pass from and compare the products of each country; the sections cut by the avenues being of course thus allotted. The plan in theory was apparently excellent, but in practice it failed to meet with many encomiums, proving too congiomerate. The exhibition of 1867 was open from April 1st until October 31; there were over 50,000 exhibitors and 10,200,000 people viewed its wonders.

Passing over the London exhibition of 1871, which hardly compared with its predecessors, we come now to the latest attempt still fresh in the minds of all, the Austrian Industrial Exhibition of 1873. This exhibition financially was a great failure; as a display of materials it was considered fully up to some of those which had preceded. The outlay was very large, the Government appropriating $6,000,000, and the Trades Union giving $1,500,000, to this $2,500,000, making the total expenditures upwards of $10,000,000. The deficit is estimated at $8,000,000. Many causes conspired to effect this. The panic of 1873 burst upon the world during the height of the display; the buildings constructed of brick and glass on the Prater, were considered entirely too large and costly, notwithstanding however the failure in this respect, it was a great exhibition, and was visited by myriads of people, and no other exhibition witnessed such a meeting of the East with the West.

Let us come now to our own Centennial buildings and will they vie in size, beauty or adaptability with all these that have gone before? I think the answer must be in the affirmative. The main exhibition building of the Centennial is to be in the shape of a parallelogram, the longer axes running east and west. It is to be 1,880 feet in length and 464 feet in width and composed of wrought iron columns, which support an iron truss roof of the sort used in depots; the work is to be of a temporary though perfectly complete and substantial character, the intention of the Commission being to dispose of the materials after the occasion of their use is over. The sides of the building to the height of seven feet is to be brick and thence to the roof, glazed sash; the roof surmounted at intervals with iron octagonal turrets, is to be of tin upon sheathing boards. Ventilators at the sides and roof with the wide passages and aisles, will during the hot summer months of the exhibition, give free circulation to the breezes that court Georges Hill and the Park vicinity. The various departments of classification will be arranged in parallel sections running lengthwise. The countries exhibiting will be located geographically in sections running crosswise of the building. The form of the building is such as to give all exhibitors an equally fair opportunity of displaying their goods. Altogether the main exhibition building will be a very creditable and exceedingly pretty structure; the views of it now struck off and for sale, portray it as it will be completed with very little exaggeration. The supplemental buildings of the Centennial Exhibition are the Art Gallery or Memorial Hall, Machinery Hall and the Horticultural and Agricultural Halls. The first of these, Memorial Hall, is a permanent structure to be erected, by the terms of the appropriation, from the State donation, and used during the Centennial as an Art Gallery—afterwards for the permanent collection of memorials of the Revolutionary period. This building, when finished will be one of the most artistic public buildings in the United States. Rising up on the most commanding portion of the Lansdowne plateau it looks south over the winding Schuylkill and the city. The entire structure will be of granite, glass and iron, in the modern renaissance architecture, 365 feet in length, 210 feet in width, 60 in height—surmounted by a dome of the same height, from which rises a figure of Columbia. This building, which is to be completed within the year, will be, undoubtedly, in itself, one of the first attractions of the Centennial. Machinery Hall, which is to be located to the north of the main building, is to consist of a main hall and hydraulic annex, in all covering 12 acres; this large space being required, as the display of machinery and the mechanic arts is expected to surpass anything ever exhibited heretofore. Horticultural Hall, which with Agricultural Hall, are to complete the list of buildings, will both be very extensive structures; the former owing to the liberality of Philadelphia, will be a permanent attachment of the Park, built of glass and iron in the Mouresque style of the twelfth century; it will be of one of the most graceful of the Centennial buildings. Agricultural Hall is to be a very light and airy structure, capable of erection in a few months. It will cover about ten acres, and in its immediate vicinity will be the stock yards for the exhibition of horses, cattle, sheep, poultry, &c.

Summing up we have the fine buildings, covering nearly fifty acres of ground, all to be complete by March 1st, 1876. The opening of the Exhibition has been changed from April 19th to May 10th—a very wise movement, as it will give a better reason for the opening, and carrying the closing hours of the Centennial Exhibition into the glorious autumn days when the beauties of Fairmount Park are a hundred fold enhanced.

In concluding these limited sketches I must express my obligation to Director General Goshorn for many of the facts made use of. If I have made any one to give more liberally or willingly to the objects of the Centennial by enlightening him a little as to where his money is going, I have accomplished what I set out to do. Your Centennial Tea Party is the first effort, west of the Allegheny mountains, in aid of the International Exhibition. May it not be the last. Outside of the patriotic motive inciting to action in regard to the exhibition of 1876, there is a larger and broader incentive in the uses of an Industrial Exhibition. Under their silent teaching and beneficent influences peace and good will among men are instilled, the prejudices of ignorance removed, desire for improvement awakened, the wants of individuals and nations made known and the power to relieve them created by the resources of art, skill and invention.

GERMANY.

Petition of Catholic Bishops to the Emperor.

BERLIN, April 11.—The Roman Catholic Bishops, soon after their conference at Fulda, addressed a petition to Emperor William in person, remonstrating against the withdrawal of State grants, to the maintenance of which they declared the honor of Prussia was pledged. They also protest against being required to obey unconditionally State laws. The Ministers, authorized by the Emperor, have replied, expressing regret that the Bishops should object to obey laws which are always obeyed in other countries, and adding that the Bishops would have preserved the Fatherland from peace-disturbing confusion if they had remained faithful to their own convictions and to the warnings which they proclaimed before the Vatican Council.

The International Relations.

BERLIN, April 11.—The North German Gazette, a semi-official journal, says: "The article of the Berlin Post contains much truth in one respect, but combined with such anxious views that we must contradict it. Our international relations are by no means as unfavorable as represented. While the reorganization of the French army is disquieting, it does not aim at a solid establishment of French forces, but is undertaken for obvious purposes. The Post overrates the influence of the Papal party and Jesuits in Italy and Austria. Their power is, happily, insufficient to prejudice the good understanding between the sovereigns or nations concerned."

The Gazette thinks the same may be said in regard to France.

Regulating Ecclesiastical Affairs.

BERLIN, April 11.—A bill has been introduced in the lower house of the Prussian Diet to abrogate the clauses of the constitution which grant independent administration of ecclesiastical affairs and unimpeded intercourse of religious associations with their superiors. The bill restricts the freedom of clerical appointments, and makes their confirmation indispensable to their legality.

"Unser Fritz" Going to Italy.

LONDON, April 12.—The German Prince Imperial will go to Italy, as announced, but the intention of officially visiting King Victor Emanuel has been abandoned. The Daily Times says it is informed that he decided not to visit the King at the special request of Prince Bismarck.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Testing a Life-saving Apparatus.

LONDON, April 10.—Paul Boynton, who started from Dover soon after four o'clock this morning to go to France in his life-saving apparatus, arrived at Boulogne at eight o'clock this evening. He was in excellent health and spirits. A great crowd was present to receive him, and gave him an enthusiastic welcome.

[N. Y. Herald Cable Special.]

LONDON, April 10.—Boynton failed five miles from France. He was not tired, but darkness stopped him. He was fifteen hours out.

LONDON, April 11.—Paul Boynton did not make the entire distance to Boulogne by swimming. He was taken on board the press steamer shortly after six o'clock yesterday afternoon, against his own wish, within eight miles of the coast. The weather had become boisterous, night was closing in, and the pilot declined the responsibility of guiding him after dark.

Boynton has determined to repeat his attempt to swim across the channel.

The Queen and Lord Mayor telegraphed their congratulations. The reporters publish a joint declaration that Boynton's desistance was solely due to their remonstrance, because of the increasing darkness and roughness of the channel. He fully proved his power to succeed under ordinary circumstances. Doctors certify that he was able to paddle full six hours longer. He was not visibly distressed.

Bismarck Going on a Summer Tour.

LONDON, April 12—5:30 A. M.—Bismarck is expected soon at Sandown, Isle of Wight, whither he comes for the benefit of his health.

MADRID, April 10.—The head position in the Madrid University has been conferred upon Da Fuente, a former editor of a Carlist newspaper. No Liberal would accept the post. There is much dissatisfaction at the appointment, and the students are signing a protest to the Government.

Peace a Paramount Necessity.

PARIS, April 11.—The Moniteur (semi-official) declares that France is anxious for peace as a paramount necessity. She is not conspiring against any one. The French press generally concur in this opinion.

A Band of Robbers Broken Up—Two Killed, One Drowned, and Two Captured.

MEMPHIS, TENN., April 10.—For some time past numerous robberies have been committed in the neighborhood of Chicot, Arkansas, and the citizens believed they were perpetrated by a regularly organized band of robbers. They have quietly been on the qui vive for them. Last Thursday night five men were discovered in the warehouse of A. G. Morton, located on the river bank, and an alarm given. Citizens soon surrounded the building and the robbers opened fire on them, which was returned, and two of the robbers killed. Another jumped out of the window into the river and was drowned. The remaining two were captured. Next day numerous persons suspected of being in league with the band were found to have disappeared, having fled from fear of the prisoners implicating them.

LOWELL.

The Labor Question—The Mill Corporations Will Not Treat With a Committee of Mule Spinners.

LOWELL, April 10.—The mill corporations scout the idea of treating with a committee of mule spinners on the question of wages. They express a willingness to talk with their own employes on the subject at any time, but not with deputations of secret societies. They hold they would prefer to shut down for three months rather than accede to the demands of operatives, and that the rise in goods would more than compensate for the loss.

MILLERSTOWN, PA.

Destructive Conflagration.

Forty Buildings in Ashes.

Loss Estimated at $100,000.

TITUSVILLE, Pa., April 11.—A fire at Millerstown, Pa., at half-past three this morning, broke out in the confectionery store and faro bank of a man named Bluestine, and in two hours destroyed forty buildings. It is impossible at present to give the losses, but they will not be less than one hundred thousand dollars. The most important losses were McKinney Bros. & Galey's building, Oil Producers' German National Bank, S. McBride's drug store, A. Telame's paint store, and the Hogan Opera House. The other buildings were principally saloons and small tenant buildings, with small insurance.

ST. LOUIS.

Another Wife Killer Sentenced to be Hanged—A Farmer Murdered—His Wife and Son Arrested on Suspicion of Having Committed the Deed—An Expedition to the Black Hills.

ST. LOUIS, April 10.—Wm. Morgan, an old man, who murdered his wife on the street on July 27, 1874, and was convicted at the last term of the Criminal Court, was brought before Judge Jones to-day, and sentenced to be hanged on Friday, the 28th of May.

A farmer named McKenzie, living five miles from Greenville, Ill., was murdered in his bed night before last, then dragged to a stable, and placed under the feet of a pair of mules. The wife and son were arrested on suspicion of having committed the deed.

An expedition to the Black Hills, to consist of 1,000 men, from Kansas City, Mo., under Col. Carpenter, commander of the Jessie scouts during the war, is being organized. They expect to leave about the 25th inst. They will go to Denver, hence to Cheyenne, where they will be joined by other parties, swelling the whole number to 1,800 men. They will be fully armed and able to cope with any body of Indians they may meet.

THE MINERS' WAR.

Conference at Hazelton Between Adjutant General Latta, the Sheriff and Citizens—A Philadelphia Policeman Threatened with Instant Death—Arrest of one of the Would-be Murderers.

HAZELTON, April 10.—Adjutant General Latta arrived here to-day, and had a conference with the Sheriff and citizens, under orders of the Governor, relative to the withdrawal of the military asked for by a delegation of citizens, miners and others, favoring a recall of the troops, and promising the Sheriff sufficient force to protect the workingmen. Subsequently those favoring the detention of the military met the Adjutant General and Sheriff and discussed the gravity of the situation. The Adjutant General has not yet reported to the Governor the result of his visit.

A special policeman from Philadelphia, who had been running one of the pump engines at Eckley, while on his way to work was taken by two men into the woods and threatened with instant death if he did not stop work. One of the men has been arrested and released on bail.

UTAH.

A Polygamist Sentenced—Appeal to the Territorial Supreme Court—Zion's Co-operative Mercantile Institution—Annual Church Conference.

SALT LAKE, UTAH, April 10.—George Reynolds, of this city, convicted of polygamy a few days ago, and the informality in whose trial had been waived by his attorneys, appeared before Judge Emerson to-day, and was sentenced to one year in the Penitentiary and $300 00 fine. The case was appealed to the Territorial Supreme Court, and a bond of five thousand dollars given for his appearance.

At a meeting to-day of the stockholders of Zion's Co-operative Mercantile Institution, W. H. Hooper resigned its Superintendency, and H. B. Clawson and Theodore McKean were elected to conduct its business.

At the annual Church Conference, held to-day, Brigham Young was re-elected Prophet, Sire, Revelator and President.

CHICAGO.

The First Steamer from the East Shore—Grain Inspector Harper Refuses to be Suspended.

CHICAGO, April 10.—The steamer Rietz reached here last night at midnight, from the east shore, this being the first arrival of the season. The captain reported a large field of ice between here and the Michigan shore.

Grain Inspector Harper this morning refused to recognize the authority of the Governor to suspend him. He says that he may be removed, but not suspended. On the other hand the Warehouse Commissioners claim that a new inspector has essentially been appointed in the pro tem. appointment of a Chief Deputy, whom they recognize as the present grain inspector.

THE GREAT TRIAL.

Awful Use of the English Language.

[From the New York Times.]

This trial has been marked by a use of the English language which is quite of a piece with all its other monstrosities. And we must admit that this "cacology" is not at all confined to the Plymouth Church people. And, withall, there has been, as there is likely to be in such cases, a somewhat absurd affectation of nicety in language by several of the parties to the trial. Our readers will remember the point made by Mr. Tilton as to the difference between "sure" and "certain," limiting the application of the former to future events, and that of the latter to past; in which, although the point was very fine, he had some show of reason. And in a recent report in the Times there was a dispute between Mr. Fullerton and that horrible young woman, Miss Bessie Turner, as to the proper use of "observation," the former using it to mean words spoken, the latter the act of observing, seeing, or watching; in which, owing to that ambiguity which pertains to so many of our words of Latin origin, both were right. But one does not need to be a purist in language to feel that all these gentlemen and ladies might well leave nice points of language unconsidered until they have mastered the common idioms of the language, and learned not to use words in absurd and ridiculously incorrect senses. As to "shall" and "will," there does not appear to be a single person connected with the trial, the Judge, perhaps, excepted, who has the mastery of this elementary idiom of the English language. The words are confused in the most preposterous way. In connection with the first person, singular and plural, the wrong word seems to be used with a constancy and a perseverance which are really worthy of a better cause. If these good people mean "shall," they are sure to say "will." For example: "If you will allow me to read it, I will be able to tell you;" "perhaps we would like to admit it;" "I would like to see it." The speakers meant, I shall be able," "perhaps we should like," "I should like," &c. Then what do they mean by "remember of," and "recollect of," which are scattered all over the reports from the day the examination of witnesses began, and which appear both in the questions of counsel and the answers of witnesses? For example, "Do you remember of my advising?" "I don't remember of my replying;" "Don't you recollect of saying?" "I cannot recollect of being," &c. Now, ordinary people of English blood and speech remember things, and if they don't remember them they try to recollect them. What is this "of" doing there? As to the continual confusion of "remember" and "recollect," to notice that might be regarded as hypercritical. That hapless word "transpire" suffers continuous ill-usage. The Saturday Review once said that it was difficult to understand the mental condition of a man who said that a thing transpired, when he meant that it happened, took place. If this be true, the state of mind of most of the parties to the Brooklyn trial must be utterly incomprehensible. "When did that transpire?" "What transpired between you on that occasion?" Questions like this are asked every quarter of an hour. Do not these gentlemen know that they might as well ask what evaporated between two persons as what "transpired"?

THERE's a revolution coming, sure, the fashion critics say. The men's trowsers are swelling, and the women's skirts are shrinking. It's just like having both legs in one pantaloon to wear the present fashion for ladies. If this thing continues, the women will be wearing the breeches in good earnest, and the despised petticoat will adorn the nether limbs of man. The new spring trowsers are big and wide and petticoaty; the new spring skirt is 2½ yards at the bottom only, and tied back at that till one can just walk. Verily, there are breakers ahead.

TEXAS.

Mexican Robbers Surround a Town—But are Scared Away by Troops—Two Men Killed—Raiders Coming to Grief—Gen. Cortina's Price for Stolen Horses and Cattle.

NEW ORLEANS, April 10.—John Valt, Deputy Collector of Customs at Roma, Texas, reports officially to Col. Haynes, at Brownsville, that on the night of the 2d inst., at ten o'clock, Roma was surrounded by a party of robbers numbering between thirty and fifty men, on their return from the interior of Texas, who had intended to rob the Custom House here, as per their statements to the Mexican prisoners they had taken en route. Captain Bryer's company of troops were here and were very soon ready to receive them. As soon as the Mexicans found this out they left and crossed the river, most of them at Sanzes' ranche, one mile below, and the balance at Los Arrieros, above here. On the 4th inst. an ambulance was stopped between this place and Rio Grande City by another party of four armed Mexicans, but being alone, and having nothing, was allowed to proceed.

BROWNSVILLE, April 11.—It is reported that Clark and his men killed French Louis and a man named Torrey, at La Prairie. The charge of abusing a woman has not been verified, and no doubt will not be.

Captain Clous returned with his command yesterday morning. It is reported that the men implicated with the raiders are coming to grief. No details are received. The raiders complain of General Cortina. He allows them two dollars ahead for beeves and four dollars for each horse they bring from Texas. They say they are compelled to take these low prices because he finds them out and they must sell to him.

MONDAY, APRIL 12, 1875.

BONDS at Frankfort 99.

PETROLEUM at Antwerp 29½f.

GOLD closed in New York Saturday at 115⅛.

THE Secretary of the Treasury is rapidly arranging to substitute silver for fractional currency. In order to do this without embarrassment, he is retiring the present volume of currency.

IT HAS been suggested that the funds secured by the Centennial tea-party should be invested in the Centennial bonds,—so that in case of a dividend, our city may secure its proper share. The idea is a good one.

THE Douglas Monument bill was finally defeated in the Illinois House of Representatives, Friday last. A few days since, when this same bill was before the House, as we learn from the Chicago Inter-Ocean, a Democratic Senator, who was visiting a member, was applied to for advice by some one who was undecided how to vote upon it. "D—— the Douglas monument," said he. "I'd rather vote for an appropriation to throw his old bones into the lake. He broke up the Democratic party, and if the Republicans want to build him a monument, let 'em. I won't consent to it." It is hardly necessary to say that the Senator who thus reverently expressed himself is a thorough hater of innovations, and lives in the southern end of that State.

GOVERNOR HARTRANFT has reflected honor on himself and the State, by his firm, yet kindly bearing, toward the troublesome miners in the Hazelton region. With the merits of the subject in controversy he had nothing to do, and did not assume to interfere. But when the peace of the region was threatened, and the civil officers were apparently powerless, he felt it his duty to show that he could exert influence in a very decided sort of way. When appealed to by the representatives of the miners to withdraw the soldiery, he very frankly gave them to know that so soon as the Sheriff of the county was assured that peace would be maintained, he would do so; but not till then. In brief, he realizes it to be his duty to enforce law and order, against all persons whatsoever, and is determined to do it. He has no contest with the miners, as such, but with any and all law-breakers, of whatever name or order, he, as Governor, must be in conflict. His firm bearing assures peace.

THE Third-Term discussion has taken a new lease of life, and President Grant is stated to be actively and vigorously, and even arbitrarily engaged in forcing his nomination on the Republican party for a Third-term. All this is sheer nonsense. President Grant has not forced, or even urged his nomination on the party at all,—either for the first or second term, and none know better than he that it is utterly absurd for a man, be he President or in private life, to attempt to force his nomination at all. He is a man of strong common sense, and of remarkably clear perceptions, and is not likely to make himself absurd. Our belief has been expressed more than once, and we still adhere to it, that President Grant favors Mr. Washburne, Minister to France, as his successor: and it is the opinion of many Republicans that he is the strongest candidate that can be nominated. His record in Congress and in caring for and protecting Germans in Paris during the siege will give him a strong vote. It will take stronger evidence than we have to convince us that President Grant seeks renomination.

THE New York Tribune building, the loftiest and most massive of the toplofticai buildings recently erected in New York, was formally opened Saturday. It is a very complete structure, and its erection attests the prosperity of the Tribune. We regret that its founder, Mr. Greeley, did not live to see the new home that has been provided for his journal. It marks the completion of an enterprise with which he was identified. We do not admire the political course of the Tribune at times, and do not hesitate to express our dissent, but as a newspaper, it is among the best, if not the very best, in the country or the world. The fullness with which the news from all parts is given, the admirable system observed, the literary excellence of the writing, and all and singular about it, make it a paper of marvelous qualities. This very fact, that it stands so high, is proof to us that the many reports of waning prosperity, that have been circulated about it, are not true. We do not believe the people of this country will willingly permit a great paper to die. We congratulate the Tribune, therefore, on the completion of its building, and hope that in its new home it will grow brighter and better, all the while.

A WASHINGTON dispatch, to the Philadelphia Press, says "Vice President Wilson, upon reflection, has decided to abandon his proposed trip to Europe, and will not, therefore, sail on the 17th. Since the foundation of the Government, no President or Vice President of the United States has ever gone out of the country during their term of office, and Mr. Wilson has concluded not to break the usage. It is said that Washington, when he was President, desired to send Vice President Adams to England on a special mission, but Jefferson and others remonstrated on the ground that the office was created for a contingency which might arise at any time. Vice President Wilson does not apprehend any contingency arising between this and the next meeting of Congress that would call him to higher duties, but still he will not leave the country during his term of office." The case of Vice President King, who was elected with Pierce, in 1852, may be considered an exception. He was in Cuba, on account of his health, when the inauguration took place, and was sworn into office by the Consul-General, under special act of Congress. He returned to his home in Alabama, in April, and died a few days after.

"LICKANTHROPY" is the new word that has been coined to describe the action of James Lick, in revoking his deed of trust. Says a journal, in the course of severe criticism on him: "It is not often that any man makes use of returning health to commit suicide. Yet this seems to be the case with Mr. Lick. The James Lick who a few months ago stunned the world by his unparalleled liberality, no longer exists. He is dead as if he had blown his brains out. The James Lick who revokes that act is quite another individual. The trustees ought at once to deny his identity. They ought to assume that the revoker is an imposter; because the acts are so utterly inconsistent as to give rise to grave doubts whether one and the same person could be the parent of both. It is reasonable to assume that Mr. Lick, who gave away millions, was consumed in the blazes of glory created by the newspapers. The press had much to answer for before, but what can be said of it now? It has actually killed the goose that laid the golden eggs! Had it paid the debt of public gratitude by instalments; had it toned down its gushing periods of praise; had it waited until the biggest and best telescope pointed skyward from Lake Tahoe—this great catastrophe might have been averted. There is one issue out of this hideous dilemma, and that we have already hinted at. Mr. James Lick—the James Lick who gave away millions—is dead. Let us write his obituary in the grand and glorious anticipatory style."

WE HOPE it is not true, as reported, that following Beecher's testimony, the prosecution are to again open the flood-gates, with more "revelations." Their case was supposed to be fully in when their counsel rested, and if it has been so shattered by the evidence for the defense that it must be reconstructed, by means of new evidence, the game of setting up and knocking down evidence may be carried on indefinitely. The public is really tired of the affair; and while the evidence is being read in the general anxiety to reach the truth, it is felt that it will be a good thing when it is finally closed. It will, in any event, require very convincing evidence to at all change the tendency of the trial. When Beecher is done, the case will be practically closed, so far as evidence goes. All else that may be brought will exert very little weight, unless it is more distinct and definite than it is at all likely to be. Beecher is yet to pass the ordeal of cross-examination, and no one can determine just what weight his evidence will have, till that is over. If he states the simple truth, his evidence will be but little shaken; but if it is a made-up story, the cross-examination should seriously break it. If it stands, however, his case is good, as against any evidence that may follow.

CAPTAIN BOYNTON, whose operations in a life-saving dress, in English waters, have been mentioned in these columns, has crossed the English channel, from Dover to Boulogne, in his dress. This is the severest test that can well be imagined, short of that of a storm at sea. The English channel is so proverbially rough, owing to short, choppy seas, that steamers have been specially invented, with cabins so adjusted by machinery, as not to partake of the roll of the ship—the object being to save passengers from sea-sickness. Yet across this peculiarly rough and stormy channel, the American has walked, in his life-saving dress. It was estimated that about sixteen hours would be required to make the passage, and the fact that he arrived at Boulogne, but slightly fatigued, indicates the ease with which he moves over the water. This severe test certainly will remove all doubt as to the utility of this new invention. Its importance is beyond all comprehension. He claims that any person can readily adapt themselves to its use, and thus can march out to sea without fear. Or, if on shipboard, and their vessel sinks, can commit themselves to the waves, with no other danger than that of not having a supply of food.

ARBITRATION, VERSUS WAR.

The calling of an International Council, to arrange a system of arbitration, by means of which wars between nations may be avoided, is the latest item of important European news. Russia is the principal promoter of this movement, and the other great Constitutional powers are in full accord with her, so far as overt adherence to the idea is concerned. The amount of interest manifested varies. Russia is enthusiastic on the subject; Germany, Austria and Italy tolerably earnest, and France, cool. England has held aloof, from suspicion and jealousy, more than else, but has, within a few days, intimated an inclination to join the movement. President Grant is reported to have given expression, within a few days, to a very cordial interest in the suggestion. There was nothing strange, however, in this. The policy of this country through all its history has been that of avoiding the curse of large standing armies, and of consequent frequent wars; and while circumstances have imposed four wars upon us, in the first hundred years of our history, they have, with one exception, been absolutely forced upon us. The policy of this country is that of peace, fairness to all, and a small standing army. Were we once rid of the troublesome Indian question, we doubt if the people would tolerate a standing army of more than from 5,000 to 8,000 men.

But the idea of putting aside war by means of peaceful arbitration is a new idea in Europe, and marks an era in the diplomacy of the nations there. Heretofore, jealousy and suspicion have predominated. As a result, their standing armies have been steadily increased, and have reached a magnitude that is fearfully oppressive, in many ways. Several millions of men are taken from the productive relations of life, and put in positions that cause them to simply consume, without in any way benefiting the country. This alone is a fearful tax on the industrious portion of the several nations. Then, the possession of large standing armies has, at times, occasioned war. It is true that a careful analysis of the causes of modern European wars, will show that political and dynastic jealousies, the furtherance of ambitious designs, and many purely theoretical issues contributed largely to produce them, yet with all this, there was a readiness on the part of rulers to enter into war that would not have existed, were it not that they knew themselves to be possessed of large and efficient armies. Hence the very existence of those armies has been one great cause for war.

But wars have created debts, and these in time have become fearfully oppressive. The contrast between the crudeness and poverty of early periods, and the prosperity and luxury of modern times, will yet call forth philosophical disquisitions, particularly in view of the burthens that are borne in later and more prosperous times. Then wars were mere predatory excursions, the expenses being largely borne by the individual participants, their reward being obtained by means of plunder. Now all is systematized. Men enter military service as a livelihood. A fixed amount of pay is given; arms and accoutrements are provided, provender is supplied, and every army requires costly paraphernalia—the expense of which is borne by the State. Thus a standing army has become expensive, and doubly costly, in that it involves the wholesale destruction of property, and a long train of expenses for pensions, and tribute, when the war is done. The movement of an army is costly, and even when a nation, as in the case of Germany, receives a large indemnity, it still has losses that cannot be made up. More than this, no modern nation has found itself able to enter upon a war without going into debt very largely. This entails interest, and probaby the payment of a given amount of principal yearly. Thus hundreds of millions of dollars must be paid, annually, for the wasteful and wicked policy of war; and this has, at least, reached a point that compels the nations to ask whether it cannot be stopped.

It it amazing how little profit there has been in modern wars. In Europe, Austria has been a sufferer, but others have gained comparatively little. The First Napoleon shook Europe with the tread of his armies,—yet with what result? All the territory acquired was wrested from him, and France was turned back again into the power of the identical family of rulers, who had been put aside to open the way, practically, for this very Napoleon. True, from one point of view, there was a blaze of military glory, but there was also an untold horror of misery. Great battle-fields were given to the world,—but on them were the bodies of thousands, who were torn and lacerated by shot and shell. The end of it all was that the Corsican went to St. Helena, and France back to the rule of her old masters. What changes of territory did the Crimean war make? That between Prussia and Austria in 1866, gave the former the political predominance the other had enjoyed, but left Germany practically as it was. Victor Emmanuel gained something; but this was only a rightful restoration. The last war, between France and Germany, gave the latter two provinces,—yet Alsace and Lorraine were originally German provinces, and this was thus a restoration. So of the civil war in this country. It left the country, as regards territory, governmental control, and the like, precisely where it was before. Money and lives were spent, in this sense, for nothing. We appreciate the idea, that there were what may be called preventive benefits,—they saved us, and even rescued us from threatened dangers. But even in this sense,—except in this country,—the results of wars have not been worth their cost.

Therefore, it is not strange that the subject attracts the most earnest attention. The time has come when the countries of Europe cannot endure the double strain of immense standing armies, and vast debts. Something must be done to relieve them, and the only thing possible, apparently, is to provide a Board of Arbitration which shall command confidence, and to which shall be referred all questions, concerning which differences may arise. The deep interest manifested in this subject, and the palpable necessity for its favorable consideration, give assurance that right results may yet be reached. Could standing armies be abolished, and peace maintained, Europe might rapidly pay its heavy war debts.

POLITICAL NOTES.

KANSAS CITY elects a Republican Mayor.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, gives a Republican majority of 375 for Mayor.

THE Republicans of Michigan make a gain of 9,000 over last Fall.

ALL the signs of the times indicate that no Northern man will receive the Democratic nomination to the Presidency.

THE Republicans of Indiana, Pa., have elected delegates to the State Convention, with instructions to support H. H. Wilson, Esq., of that county, for State Treasurer.

GOVERNOR LESLIE, of Kentucky, is a very prominent candidate for the United States Senatorship from that State. The Hon. James B. Beck is his most formidable rival.

SAYS the Toledo Blade: Last spring the Democratic city ticket was elected by about 500 majority. This spring the figures are reversed, and the Republicans show a majority equal to about 500—making a change of 1,000 votes in one year.

ALREADY the men who have Presidential aspirations—and their name is legion—begin to flutter and twitter on their roosts, inviting sportsmen to knock them over, and yet the season has not fairly opened. Southerners are particularly active in the game.

IN 1868 Connecticut elected a Democratic Governor by 1,764 majority, and we heard a great deal of the significance of the result, how it decided the Presidential contest, and that sort of thing. Yet that same Fall the Republicans carried the State by 3,041 majority.

FULL returns of the Rhode Island election give the following vote: For Governor, Hazard, Independent Republican, 8,717; Lippitt, Regular Republican, 8,341; Cutler, Democrat, 5,169. For Lieutenant Governor—Day, Independent Republican, 9,135; Sisson, Regular Republican, 7,942; Pierce, Democrat, 511.

THE Woman's Journal, in an analysis of the recent vote in the Massachusetts Legislature on woman suffrage, finds that in the Senate 10 Republicans voted for suffrage, while 17 Democrats and 10 Republicans voted against it. In the House 58 Republicans, 14 Democrats and 3 Independents voted for suffrage, and 66 Republicans, 48 Democrats and 6 Independents against it.

AS AN illustration of the diversity of policy adopted by the Democrats in the North and South to meet political exigencies, it may be observed that the Democrats of the Illinois Legislature have unanimously voted in favor of the total repeal of registration laws, while in South Carolina they look upon a stringent registration of voters as almost a panacea for political woes.

PERSONAL.

THE house of Edwin Forest, at Philadelphia, will be sold in a few days.

PRESIDENT GRANT will be fifty-three years of age on the twenty-seventh day of the present month.

DANIEL CURTIS, of Dorset, eighty-seven years old, is the oldest postmaster in Vermont. He has been in office over thirty years.

A CARRIAGE and span of horses were presented to Cardinal McCloskey on Saturday by a few prominent Catholics of New York.

THE Queen's birthday is celebrated on May 25, and it is said that on that occasion she will create another Field Marshal of the army.

THE President will leave Washington on Friday next for Massachusetts to attend the centennial celebration of the battle of Lexington on the 19th inst.

BETSEY WILLIAMS, one of the last slaves held in Pennsylvania, died in Lewisburg, recently, aged 75 years. She was made free at the age of 18 years.

ON the 5th inst., James Whitaker, the oldest in years and in service of the iron-masters of the United States, died at his residence in Philadelphia, aged almost 94 years.

MR. CHESTER ANDERSON, father-in-law of Senator Dawes, who is eighty-six years of age, was lately thrown from a sleigh at Ashfield, Mass., and suffered severe internal injuries.

J. N. MCCULLOCH, J. D. Layng, Wm. Stewart, and John M. Hardy, all of Pittsburgh, Pa., officers of the Pittsburgh, Chicago and Fort Wayne Railroad, are at the Sherman House.—Chicago Inter-Ocean, Friday.

MRS. HENRY ELLIOTT JOHNSON, of Baltimore, formerly Miss Harriet Lane, the hostess of the White House during the administration of Mr. Buchanan, her uncle, recently gave a kettledrum, at which kettledrums composed of flowers was a feature.

THE death of two members of the present House of Representatives of Pennsylvania is announced—William Bardsley, Republican, of the Seventh district of Philadelphia, and Charles Willett, Democrat, of Oakford, Bucks county. Both were serving their first term.

EX-REPRESENTATIVE JOHN CESSNA, of Pennsylvania, has filed an application at Washington for appointment to the office of First Assistant Attorney General, which has been made vacant by the resignation of Clement C. Hill. Mr. Cessna also had a conference with the President on the subject.

COL. JOHN M. POWELL, of Mississippi, who on Thursday committed suicide, previous to the rebellion was one of the wealthiest and most influential planters in Mississippi. Wendall Phillips once remarked of his estate that "cotton and slaves grow spontaneously on Powell's plantation."

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

T. & E. DEWOLF & Co., commission and shipping merchants, of Halifax, N. S., have failed. Their liabilities are reported at $150,000.

THE winter wheat crop is generally reported to be in excellent condition, notwithstanding the extreme coldness of the past winter and the small quantity of snow that fell in most sections of the country.

ADVICES from Key West and Havana contradict previous alarming reports concerning the prevalence of the yellow fever at those ports. There have been only about forty cases in Havana during the whole of the past season, and there was next to nothing for a foundation in the story that Key West is threatened with an epidemic.

IT WAS lately announced that 250,000 Polish Catholics had resolved to pass over, in a body, to the Greek Church. This is confirmed by the fact that the whole body of the clergy, the "spiritual pastors and masters" of this crowd, have presented a memorandum to the Emperor of Russia acknowledging the truth of the intended secession, and accounting for their intentions by "the moral impossibility of accepting the dogma of infallibility."

THE people living around the Overlook House, in the Catskills, weren't going to have any April Fool's joke played on them. They were altogether too smart to be caught in that way. So when the alarm of fire in that hotel was raised they remained conscientiously unmoved, and offered no assistance till the flames came bursting through the roof. Men who stand in such an awful dread of ridicule are none too good to be fooled to the top of their bent, and that doesn't extend far.

IN THE New York Assembly on Friday the bill to permit a wife to testify for or against her husband in civil actions and criminal trials was reported adversely by the Judiciary Committee, and the report agreed to. Similar disposition was made of Speaker McGuire's bill allowing a wife to testify against her husband or in behalf of another person in cases of crim. con. It is probable no more efforts to alter laws of evidence in any way that would affect the Beecher trial will be made in the Assembly.

THE foreign exports from Philadelphia during March amounted to $2,423,024, an increase of about $133,000 over the corresponding month last year. These exports were nearly equally divided between American and foreign vessels, the latter having a slight preponderance, and about one-half of them were sent to England—$1,266,788. The other large shipments were $291,000 to Cuba, $222,000 to Belgium, $216,000 to Ireland, $111,000 to Germany, and $105,000 to the British West Indies. The leading articles exported were $619,000 of provisions, $595,000 of breadstuffs, $234,000 of petroleum, $215,000 of cotton, $160,000 of cooperage, and $106,000 of leather.

THE EXECUTION AT ST. LOUIS.

A Remarkable Speech From the Scaffold.

Patrick O'Shea, who was executed at St. Louis last Friday, for the murder of his wife, delivered himself of the following remarkable speech on the scaffold:

GENTLEMEN: Ain't it a glorious sight to see a poor man under condemnation from the word go? I don't deserve this punishment. Perjury, lies, and prejudice on both sides have got me in this fix. I don't deserve it. If there is any man in this crowd, from Col. Normile to Judge Jones, who can say that I am guilty, let him step forward and speak, and explain to the public who made all these charges, which they have followed up and executed. One person I see in the crowd who asked this question at the inquest. Vorester, I see you there. You asked at the inquest who would prefer this charge. I want to know if anybody did it? I want to explain to you, before God and man. I say it before you all, John Miller, formerly of the police force, but I believe he is not there now—he is a liar; he is a liar from top to bottom. He swore my life away. But I am willing to suffer and die. Henry Norris, he is a perjurer, likewise. Let him stand up there and tell it. I want him to stand up there and tell it. I want everybody to know it. He is a perjurer, I am dying for a crime of which no one born of woman knows anything about. My family affairs no one knows anything about, and no man but myself is concerned. There is no use to make such history over the matter. God hasn't deserted me. I can stand the noose. If I were a rich man I wouldn't stand here; I'd be like all the rest running around St. Louis. But now I have to expiate on the gallows a crime I didn't commit, or of which I am in a manner innocent. Be it said that I died like a man, and died for the sake of Him who died for me. God help me. Col. Normile and Judge Jones would not give me a fair trial. They would not give me justice because I did not have money. They have killed me. I have lived in St. Louis for the last eighteen years. I forgive every one who has ever done any wrong to me. No police officer can say he ever arrested me for drunkenness or for anything on the streets. I see men here now who have known me seventeen years. I can pick out men now who have known me twelve, fifteen, and sixteen years. You can see that I die like a man, and I can stand here and swear on a stack of Bibles as high as the Court House that they would not give me a fair trial; no justice from the word go, and they know it. I am poor in pocket, but decent in principle. I am poor and ill and have to suffer, thank God, like a man. The thing happened, but nobody knows how it happened. She was the cause of the cutting. I never cut her through ill-will, malice, or spite. She got cut through her own fault; therefore I am not to blame. I forgive all, and hope they will forgive me. May God have mercy on me.

The criminal had been convicted by the testimony of his own son, who was an eye-witness of the butchery of his mother. There is downright satisfaction in knowing that this wretch was actually hung, and that his son walked sixteen miles for the pleasure of seeing the job done.

THE LICK ESTATE.

The Philanthropist's Attorney Drawing up a New Deed of Trust.

[From the San Francisco Chronicle, March 31.]

"Nothing new," said Mr. Selby, one of the Lick trustees, yesterday, in reply to the inquiry of a reporter for advice of developments in the complication arising from the revocation of the deed of gift made last summer by the supposed philanthrophist. "Having refused, in accordance with a sense of duty, to resign the trusteeship at his whim, we can do no more. Any legal proceedings to be taken to settle the matter must be taken by the other side, I suppose. I am disgusted with the whole business—sick and tired of it. We accepted the trust to the prejudice of our own interests as business men, to be of service in the cause of charity and the public good, and you bet we would all give a champagne supper to be rid of it now." Half an hour later the reporter met John B. Felton, Mr. Lick's attorney, on Montgomery street. Mr. Felton said, "I don't know yet just what the next step will be, but I presume it will be the appointment of a new Board of Trustees, and the filing of a new deed of gift in accordance with Mr. Lick's present views in regard to the distribution of his property. I have not made up my mind yet as to what other legal proceedings will be necessary." "I suppose," said the reporter, "that the dispute will have to be fought out in the courts." "I don't know," replied the lawyer. "It ought not to. There is no good reason why they should refuse to comply with the old man's wishes. You see he is good for fifteen years of life yet—at least it seems so from his present condition—and he wants to see these works carried out in his own lifetime. He wants men for trustees who he thinks will be more energetic in carrying his bequests into effect, and will be nearer to him than the ones he has already appointed. He appointed rich men with large business interests before. This was a mistake, because these men have not the time to spare from their business that so large and important a trust requires. I don't think they are justifiable in refusing to resign. If they fear that Mr. Lick will not renew his donations they mistake the intentions of the man. I have known him but about six weeks, but I know that his heart is set on making those gifts and seeing them carried into practical effect in his lifetime. I have positive instructions from him to begin at once the drawing of a new deed of trust, and shall probably have it finished in a week or so, but I don't intend to be hurried in a matter of so much importance. The only change, as I am now informed, will be the making of more liberal allowances to his relatives, some of whom months ago refused the bequests in his former deed. The other gifts will not be materially changed: I don't know yet who he intends to appoint trustees."

THE OHIO GOVERNORSHIP.

Hon. B. F. Wade's Reasons for Not Being a Candidate.

Hon. B. F. Wade declines to be a candidate for Governor of Ohio, and gives the following, among other reasons, therefor:

The question has frequently been asked me by many persons of late, if I am a candidate for Governor of Ohio, etc.—and my answer has been uniformly in the negative; but this answer has not been prompted by any want of zeal in the great Republican cause. On the contrary, I have no doubt that the best interests of the Republic, if not to the Republic itself, will depend upon the ascendency of that great party in the councils of the nation for many years to come. The Democratic party never had but one principle of policy before the war, and that was to uphold and extend human slavery. Since the war, all its principles and practices are negative and despotical, and should they triumph, all that we gained by the war would be lost, and worse than lost.

Why then, you will ask, do you hesitate to be a candidate? My answer is: Because I am not qualified for the great struggle that is before us. For two years past, my voice has been so used up that I have not been able to make a speech, and it is worse now than ever. And this reason of itself is all-sufficient, as you will agree. 2. It has ever been a fundamental principle with me, and never yet violated, that the office should seek the man, and not the man the office; and in accordance with this principle I early took a solemn oath that I would never stump the public for, or in favor of, an office which I was to fill; and even if I were able to do so, that oath would bar me. I never yet solicited any mortal man for an office. It would be too humiliating. I would sooner beg for old clothes. These, you will say, are very old fashioned ideas; but if this glorious government is ever ruined, it will be by office-seekers.

Another reason, which, however, does not amount to much, is that I can not well afford to take the position. Though a long time in office, I made but little out of it.

I am not insensible of the great debt of gratitude I owe to the people of Ohio for their confidence and support, and will do all I can to redeem it.

Truly your friend, B. F. WADE.

Ritualism and Converts to Catholocism.

The Rock (London) says: "It will be a great satisfaction to the country to hear that the Prince and Princess of Wales have ceased to attend the services at that ultra-Ritualistic church, All Saints', Margaret street, where this time last year they were frequently seen." A correspondent of the same journal informs it that five members of Oxford University have entered the Roman Catholic Church within the past twelve months, all of them from St. Barnabas' (Ritualistic) Church. The Roman Catholics are building in Oxford a large and handsome new church.

Ten Years Ago.

At Appomattox Court House, ten years ago to-day, (Friday, April 9, 1875) General Robert E. Lee surrendered his sword to General Grant, and received terms of unparalleled magnanimity. The Confederate soldiers were bidden to go home and turn the sword into a ploughshare. Their only punishment was to be the acknowledgment that their plans for the overthrow of the Union were defeated. It was hoped that this pardon of a whole race of rebels would produce peace, and yet the large majority of the people feared continued turbulence and freely predicted it. As a rule the ex-rebel soldiers have observed their parole, and the main trouble at the South has come from non-combatant politicians, who refuse to accept the situation, and the aristocratic class, who cherish a malignant hatred of the colored citizen. These joined to the small but noisy statesmen of the North, who, like Eaton, of Connecticut, outvie any Southerner in devotion to State rights, manage still to keep the country in something of a ferment. The soldier of the Union has always echoed the cry of his leader, "Let us have peace." Grant is as magnanimous as when he stood between Andrew Johnson and General Lee, and declared that he would throw up his commission if the former persisted in his determination to bring Lee to trial for treason. He has not changed. Nor has the Republican party ever pursued a vindictive policy. In fact, the comparative quiet of the country to-day is a marvel of good management. The retrospect of ten years cannot but be gratifying to the party that has held the helm of the Government.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

Memorable Days.

On the 12th of April, 1861—fourteen years ago to-day—the Rebels opened fire on Fort Sumter; on the 13th its brave little garrison surrendered; and on the 14th Major Anderson and his men embarked for New York. On the following day, the 15th, President Lincoln issued his notable proclamation, summoning Congress in special session, calling for 75,000 men of the Militia of the several States to repossess the forts, &c., and appealing to "all loyal citizens to favor, facilitate, and aid this effort to maintain the honor, the integrity, and the existence of our National Union, and the perpetuity of popular government, and to redress wrongs already long enough endured." Then followed that general "uprising of the North" that will ever remain among the most glorious recollections of the American people. Four long years of war ensued; and then came that other day in April, of which Saturday week was the tenth anniversary, and which perhaps was the happiest our people have ever known. It was on this day, the 3d of April, 1865, that the long besieged and bravely defended city of Richmond fell into the hands of the Union forces, and the defeated, dispirited army of Lee, driven thence, were being so closely pressed that its capture or dispersion seemed but a question of a few days. "Push things," was Grant's brief direction to Sheridan; and six days later, it being then the morning of Palm Sunday, April 9, 1865, Gen. Grant telegraphed to Secretary Stanton the eagerly awaited tidings that Gen. Lee had surrendered the Army of Northern Virginia upon the terms proposed by himself.

Latest Advices Concerning Money and Stock Matters.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, April 12, 1875.

There was an improved current business at the banks on Saturday. The large run of deposits is a source of surprise to bank officers, and indicates that there is more available money than there has been at any but exceptional periods for a year past. While deposits accumulate, the demand for money continues light, and comes almost entirely from small traders and manufactures—not from parties who have heretofore enjoyed the best of credit; indeed, they are mostly those of inferior credit, and whose offerings a year and a half ago would have been thrown out, but such as the banks now have to accept or permit much of their receipts to remain unemployed.

The same general condition exists at the East, but is accounted for there on the theory that the railroad companies are not now very considerable borrowers at bank. During the recent plethora of money the most of them have been successful in negotiating long loans at satisfactory rates in both the foreign and domestic markets. This fact has had the effect of making money in the open market abundant and cheap. Careful observers think they see signs of a change for the better and evidences of a revival of the industries, which will quicken a demand for money. It is sincerely hoped they may be found prophets of true vision; as yet, however, the outlook is not the best, as to our home manufactures.

—At the East there is a demand for bonds, for both the home and the foreign market. Surprising as it may seem, with this advance in bonds gold was scarcely higher than the day before and foreign exchange was quoted steady. These high prices of bonds point to higher gold, and are the more surprising from the fact that the Treasury will disburse May 1st $14,000,000 in gold, as interest on the public debt, to be followed by $15,000,000 on the same day in redemption of 5-20 bonds, $5,000,000 June 1, $30,000,000 June 11, and $25,000,000 for interest July 1. The redemption of bonds on May 1st and June 1st are on account of the syndicate, and, of course, some exchanges of old bonds will be made, but the interest on May 1st and July 11, and the redemption of $30,000,000 bonds June 11th, will all be in gold. The Treasury disbursements in gold alone for May and June call for a grand total of $89,000,000. In addition, on July 1st, the Treasury will pay out $1,938,705 currency on the bonds issued in aid of the Pacific Railroads, and on the same day States, counties, cities and corporations will disburse largely for interest and dividends. This outpouring of capital will be sensibly felt at bank and in business circles generally, but nowhere, probably, more than in the stock and gold markets. Money will be rendered easy both for business and for stock speculations, unless there shall be some countervailing cause not now apparent.

—The National Banks included in the March reports have an aggregate working capital of $679,960,389 32, including paid up capital, surplus, and undivided profits. The new banks recently organized and not included in this report will raise the paid up capital to over $500,000,000. The deposits, which amount to $647,667,627 38, exhibit the magnitude of the operations of these institutions, but this is much more strongly illustrated by the loans and discounts, which aggregate $951,744,432 59. It will be observed that the working capital exceeds the deposits, and it is apparent that with such resources the banks in a time of active prosperity ought to do a discount business considerably exceeding the above. A full supply of banking facilities under the national system would not be less than a thousand millions authorized and paid up capital, and two thousand millions of loans and discounts. Now that the system is free and without limit it may be expected to gradually increase from month to month until it reaches these proportions. It will be the best demonstration of the real strength of the capital of the country, and serve to discourage the incessant talk about the immense benefit of foreign capital.

—Some of the ocean steamship lines are about to materially advance the rates of passage. Cabin passage by the Anchor Line, after May 1st, will be advanced to $90. Heretofore it has been $70. On the Inman steamers the rate will be $80 to $100, according to accommodation; round trip tickets, good for the whole year, $145 to $175, gold.

NEW YORK, April 10, 1875.

Money was easy. The closing quotations for call loans were 2½@3 per cent. Foreign exchange was easier, with business at 485¼@485½ for bankers' long sterling and 489¼@489½ for demand. Gold opened and closed at 115¼, with sales in the interim at 115⅛. The carrying rates were 2, 2½, 3 and 1 per cent. The clearings were $52,000,000. The Assistant Treasurer disbursed to-day $30,000, and received for customs $255,000. The specie shipments during the week were $593,992, of which $402,670 was Spanish gold and $50,000 American—the remainder silver coin and bars. The imports were $360,400 gold coin, $290,500 bullion, and $36,000 silver. The imports of dry goods were $2,171,498, and merchandise $5,706,818.

Government bonds were active and strong. State bonds were quiet and nominal. In railroad bonds there was considerable excitement, and large dealings in Union Pacific issues. The prices made were the highest ever current. Union Pacific firsts advanced to 99⅞, and for large lots 100 was bid. Sinking funds rose to 93½, and closed 93¾ bid, and offered at 93⅞. Land grants sold as high as 97, ex coupon of 3½ per cent. The advance was stimulated by an increase in the earnings for the first week in April of $101,404 on last year's earnings. Central Pacifics sold at 100 and closed at 99⅞@99¾. Other railroad mortgages were quiet and firm.

A meeting of joint committees of the Pacific Mail Steamship and Panama Railroad was held this afternoon for the purpose of adjusting questions between the companies on the matter of through freights. The Pacific Mail committee submitted a report, which the Panama committee will lay before its Board of Directors and report at a future meeting.

Vice President Scott states he has examined the accounts of the China agent of the Pacific Mail Company, but had not found any discrepancy. The mistake existed in the accounts of the agency between Hong Kong and Yokohama, which occurred during the absence of the China agent.

The improvement in active stocks to-day ranged from ¼ to 1½ per cent, Union Pacific touching 73⅞. The features were Union Pacific, Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, Pacific Mail, Wabash, and Western Union. During the day there was a decline from the morning prices, but towards the close there was a recovery of from ⅛@¾ per cent., with large dealings on increased earnings. The market closed active and weak. The sales to-day aggregated 188,000 shares, of which 16,400 were Erie, 10,200 Lake Shore, 5,000 Northwest common, 69,000 Pacific Mail, 3,500 St. Paul, 34,000 Western Union, and 34,500 Union Pacific.

Condition of the Markets at Home and Abroad.

DAILY REPORT OF PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, SATURDAY, April 10, 1875.

The general markets presented no new or important features to-day; business has been rather better during the week, although considerably behind what it should be at this particular time. The grain markets continue very firm, and as the receipts for some time past have been light, the stock here is very much reduced and prices are tending upward. Clover Seed is higher, and Eggs lower. The hog product continues very firm and the trade appear confident as regards the future.

APPLES—Quiet and unchanged; $1,50@2,50 per bbl, as to quality.

APPLE BUTTER—50@55c ₩ gal.

BUCKWHEAT FLOUR—2¾@3c ₩ lb.

BEANS—Quotable, in a jobbing way, at $1,85@1,95 for mediums, and $2@2,10 for navies.

BUTTER—Dealers continue to report a very fair demand for strictly prime table Butter, but that the market for other kinds is very dull and largely overstocked; sales of prime to choice at 25@28c.

CRANBERRIES—$10@12 ₩ bbl.

CHEESE—Is reported steady, with regular jobbing sales at 16½@17 for prime Ohio Goshen, and 17@17½ for New York do.

DRIED FRUIT—Continues quiet and unchanged; Apples, 7½@8½; Peaches, (halves) 8½@9½.

EGGS—With the receipts increasing and dealers more anxious to realize, prices are weak and lower; 20 cents was regarded as the ruling price to-day.

FLOUR—The market is firm and we advance our quotations 25c per bbl on winter wheats: red, $5,75@6; amber and white, $6,25@6,50. Spring wheat flours also advancing; Wisconsins, $5,50@5,60; Minnesotas, $5,85@6. Rye Flour, $5,75@6.

GROCERIES—There has been a fair degree of activity during the past week, the fine weather and improved condition of the country roads having increased our country trade, but the city trade continues very meagre, and no improvement is expected as long as the lock-out continues. Many of the city retailers have got almost, if not all, their capital on their books, and as much of it is with a class of people who cannot pay until they obtain employment and there is no other way of collecting it, their credit has become impaired, and, as a consequence, they have to measure their purchases by the amount of ready cash they have in hand. No new features in any of the leading articles to which reference has not previously been made.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, SATURDAY, April 10, 1875.

REVIEW FOR THE WEEK.

The most important feature to record is the sharp decline in the raw article, which, as a general thing, was unexpected; as compared with last week, it has dropped from 20 to 25c ₩ bbl, and in sympathy therewith, there has also been a sharp shrinkage in the product. Refiners here bought pretty freely all week, from which it is evident that they regard it as good property at current rates, but as a rule they sold very little refined; in other words, they were impressed very forcibly with the belief that it was a good time to buy the raw article but a bad time to sell the product. The foreign outlook continues favorable for an active export trade, as stocks in the foreign markets are very much reduced, and the consumption is steadily increasing every year. The stock of refined at the five principal German ports on March 20th was 260,742 bbls, against 472,555 bbls at the corresponding time last year. The stock of refined at London, England, March 22d, 1875, was 53,060 barrels against 100,000 barrels on the same date last year. The quantity afloat on March 20th for the five leading German ports was 96,145 bbls, against 84,676 bbls the same time, 1874. Quantity loading at same date, 136,560 bbls, against 105,100 bbls same time, 1874.

RECAPITULATION.

	1875.	1874.
Total in store bbls.	260,742	472,555
Total afloat	96,145	84,676
Total loading	136,500	105,100
Grand total	493,387	662,331

The above shows a visible reduction in the supply, as compared with that on the 20th of March, last year, of about 170,000 barrels. The receipts at the same ports for the week ending the date above given were 19,000 barrels, against 14,000 barrels for the same week last year.

The following were the quantities of refined oil taken for consumption for the week ending March 20th, and from Jan. 1st to March 20th, for the years named:

	W'k end'g Mar. 20. 1875.	1874.	Jan. 1 to Mar. 20. 1875.	1874.
From Bremen bbls.	11,281	6,372	185,251	122,847
From Antwerp	5,460	4,569	130,757	110,603
From Hamburg	1,918	1,782	37,347	25,345
From Rotterdam	2,176	3,314	59,944	23,816
From Stettin	1,255	1,445	25,408	19,088
Total bbls.	22,090	17,482	438,707	301,699

The increase for the week ending March 20th, was about 5,000 barrels, and the increase from January 1st to March 20th, 1875, was about 137,000 barrels over the quantity taken during the same period last year.

CRUDE.

The market was considerably firmer to-day, and late in the afternoon there were no sellers at prices current during the early part of the day; sales of barge oil were made at $1,72½@1,75 delivered here, but towards the close of the day it was held at $1,80. It is estimated that fully one hundred thousand barrels of oil have arrived by river since the opening of navigation, of which about one-half was owned by refiners at Wheeling, Parkersburg and other points below, and the other half by Pittsburgh refiners.

REFINED.

The refined market was also firmer to-day, and, as compared with Thursday, prices were ¼ to ⅜ of a cent ₩ gallon higher. We are cognizant of a sale of 1,000 barrels at 11⅝, delivered at Connellsville depot, this month, and there were more buyers than sellers at that figure. Refiners generally are not inclined to sell for the present, from which it is evident that they anticipate better prices before very long.

OIL BARRELS.

The operations continue light, and the market is generally reported dull; sales of countries at $1,15, $1,20 and $1,22, according to quality. City make quiet at $1,30.

FREIGHTS.

There is no change to note in the rates on stock from this point east; 25 cents ₩ cwt to Philadelphia and Baltimore and 30c to New York. It is still intimated that drawbacks are allowed to large shippers, but for this there is nothing but rumor, and while there is reason to believe that such is the case, we opine that it would be difficult to substantiate it. The Connellsville Company, if we are not misinformed, are still receipting through to Baltimore at the rate of $35 ₩ car, but the fact that this company have poor accommodations for shipping stock, shippers still prefer shipping over the Penna. Central, notwithstanding the rates are considerably higher.

CATTLE.

The operations during the past two days and a half were meagre, the sales footing up but 107 head, and while the receipts during the time in question footed up 150 cars, all of these with the exception of five cars, were through consignments. The market during the first half of the week, when nearly all the business is usually transacted, was dull, and notwithstanding the supply of cattle intended to be sold here was light, it was considerably in excess of the demand, the best evidence of which is that quite a number of droves were shipped on in first hands. Salesmen generally reported prices off from a quarter to half a cent ₩ lb. There was a very perceptible falling off in the demand this week, which was owing to the fact that several of the Philadelphia shippers, instead of buying all their cattle here, ordered quite a number from Chicago, some 30 cars; furthermore, there was but little inquiry from either Baltimore or New York, hence the unsatisfactory condition of the market, notwithstanding the supply was small. We are not surprised that the receipts continue light, as prices are higher relatively west than here, and as long as this continues we need not look for an increase, as western men will not ship to this market unless there is some show of a margin for profit, which there has not been for some time past.

Stock Cattle, as ₩ quality	3,50@4,50

HOGS.

The run was, as will be seen, an exceedingly light one all week, and when we take into consideration the fact that a portion of the receipts were through consignments, it will at once appear very evident that the supply must have been a light one. It is true, the extreme prices and warm weather combined have curtailed the demand considerably; yet, as compared with last week, prices have further advanced, although the market to-day was reported a little weaker in tone as compared with the two days preceding. Philadelphia hogs quotable at 9,40@9,60, and Yorkers at 8,40@8,60. Philadelphia shippers report that they are not buying by one-third as many hogs as they did prior to the advance of the past month, but there is a general scarcity of prime heavy hogs, hence prices, notwithstanding, have advanced. We should not be surprised to see Philadelphia hogs go up to 10 cents next week, unless they come in a good deal plentier than they have been for some weeks past.

SHEEP.

The market for this class of stock fully recovered from the decline of last week, and trade was active at an advance of a quarter of a cent, as the supply was light, unequal to the demand. About one-half of the receipts were clippers, and unless the weather turns cold, the proportion will no doubt be larger next week, as farmers generally will put whatever stock they want to dispose of on the market just as soon as they have taken the wool off, and, if so, it is not likely that this week's prices can be maintained. Quotations may be given as follows. Extra heavy wool sheep, 7¼@7½c; prime 100 lbs, 7c; 90@95 lbs, 6,60@6,75c; good 74@85 lbs, 5¾@6¼c; clipped sheep, as to quality, 4½@6.

Wool.

BOSTON, April 10.—There is no material change in wool since last week. The demand has been fair and prices steady, with no great pressure on buyers. Medium and combing and delaine fleeces are so scarce and wanted that all available lots are readily taken at full figures. The sales of fleeces have been rather limited. A choice lot of No. 1 Ohio sold, it is supposed, as high as 60c, but for choice XX it is difficult to realize 53@54c, and low X, if in good condition, is now about as valuable as good XX or even picklock. The range of prices has been from 52@60c; small lots of Michigan 49@50c; good domestic combing and delaine 63@66c, and choice lots readily sell at the latter price and upwards. The new Kentucky clip is near at hand, and some contracts have already been made, but prices have not been fixed. The principal movement in domestic wool has been confined to pulled, nearly half of the sales being of that description. Good supers and combing pulled command very full prices. Combing pulled is firm and wanted at 52@55c.

THE Fannie Tatum has given up her mountain trip, owing to the scarcity of freight.

THE Exchange departed for Cincinnati on Saturday with a very fair trip and with engagements below.

AS WILL be seen by card, the new steamer John L. Rhoads, will commence loading to-day for St. Louis.

THE Iron Mountain double tripped it to Steubenville. Capt. Sam. Dean and Thos. Morris are her pilots.

CAPTAIN IK. R. WHITTAKER passed through Cincinnati on Thursday, en route to St Louis to look after the interests of the Fearless and barges.

THE wharf-boat at Mound City, Illinois, burned Tuesday night, belonged to F. A. Fair, and was insured for $1,250. There was no cargo aboard at the time.

THE new steamer John L. Rhoads will at once commence loading for St. Louis. Captain J. M. Vandergrift is in command and Mr. J. C. Fisher is in charge of the office.

THE towboats Charley McDonald, Oil Valley, Boaz, J. S. McDonald, Wm. Stone, John Dippold, John Penney, Sam Clark and I. N. Phillips arrived at Cincinnati on Saturday.

IT is understood that Capt. Adams, of the Wild Duck, will present a bill of damages to the owners of the United States, caused by the collision, to which reference is made elsewhere.

THE R. W. Skillinger, Capt. Russell, is the regular packet for Cincinnati and all intermediate points to-morrow, leaving at 4 P. M. The Skillinger pays strict attention to way business.

WE should not be surprised to see Captain John Darragh back here shortly for the purpose of building another mammoth freighter; he is too good a steamboatman to be without a boat long.

THE Iron Mountain took out the Rover's tow for St. Louis; it consisted of two barges of freight, two of railroad iron and six of coal. We presume the tow was considered too much for the Rover.

THE Mallie Ragon and towboat J. H. Bigley arrived, and the Iron Mountain took her departure yesterday with the balance of her tow. The Juniata, R. W. Skillinger, Carrie Brooks and Salt Valley were due last night and to-day.

FOLLOWING boats were in port yesterday: Mallie Ragon, John L. Rhoads, and towboats. Ark, Park Painter, Dick Fulton No. 3, Maggie Smith, Resolute, John F. Dravo, J. S. Mercer, Lion, N. J. Bigley, Joseph A. Stone, Little Giant, Panther, Mary Ann, Tigress No 2, Jas. Gilmore, J. H. Bigley, Wild Duck and Rover.

MR. SOL. PRICE, mate of the Paragon, writes as follows: "I have been informed that there is a report in the papers that I was lost on the Paragon, and that I was second mate. This is a mistake, for I was the only mate on her. I was mating her alone, but had sent for a second. I heard that a rumor was going that I fired on some fishermen, but there is no truth in it."

A BISMARCK paper, of March 24th says:—Capt. Braithwaite has built a large pier just above the boats to protect them from the ice when the river breaks up, and from which he intends to load his boats during the season, using it as a wharf. It appears to be substantially built, and will doubtless prove of great value, not only during the break-up but throughout the season.

A SIOUX CITY paper of 6th says: The boats at Bismarck are the Fontenelle, May Lowry, Ida Stockdale and the ferryboat Union. Workmen were engaged yesterday in constructing a bulk-head around the break in the Peninah's side. It is the object of her owner to raise her if possible, but river men are of the opinion that it cannot be done. They say that her bottom is badly broken.

THE stock of coal at New Orleans on the first of the present month was about 2,500,000 bushels. The stock of coal now at and on its way to New Orleans is 176 boats, or about four million bushels, which is a supply to last fully eight months. Prices at that port rule at the ruinously low rate of from 30 to 35c per 100 lb barrel, and much of the stock on sale cost the dealers more than that figure above a year ago.

SUPERVISING INSPECTOR JOHN S. DEVINNEY has, and very properly, too, in the opinion of those who know anything in regard to the matter, revoked the decision of the local inspectors of Cincinnati, in regard to the collision between the Wild Duck and the United States, of the Cincinnati and Louisville Mail Line, and restored to Mr. Leander Patterson, who was pilot on the Wild Duck, his license. The decision, so far as relates to the pilot of the United States, remains unchanged, he was suspended for sixty days. Mr. Patterson is known as one of the best and most careful pilots between Pittsburgh and St. Louis, and the action of Supervising Inspector Devinney in restoring his license was nothing more than an act of justice, as he (Mr. Patterson) was in no sense, according to the evidence, responsible for the accident, but on the contrary, did all that could be done to prevent it.

THE Cairo correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial gives the following details of the recent difficulty between pilots McBride and Dougherty at that point:—The event of yesterday was the difficulty that occurred at 11 o'clock between pilots Angelo McBride and James Dougherty, in front of the Delmonico Hotel. The cause of the difficulty is not known. Witnesses testified that McBride was sitting, whittling with a small pocket-knife, when Dougherty came up and asked him to step to the edge of the side-walk, as he had something to say to him. What was said was not heard, but McBride retreated, saying that he wanted no fuss with Dougherty, and telling him to go away, &c. The parties finally moved out to the railroad track, where Dougherty caught McBride, and, in the scuffle, McBride cut Dougherty on the right cheek, across the throat and in the abdomen. The cuts were four in number, and all long ones, but are not looked upon as dangerous. McBride was arrested and lodged in jail until four o'clock, when he had his preliminary examination before Judge Brass, who decided that it was a clear case of self-defense, and dismissed the case. Dr. Wardon sewed up Dougherty's wounds, and he walked to his hotel afterwards, and it is hoped he will speedily recover.

SATURDAY'S St. Louis Democrat says:—The Benton came from Pittsburgh in five days four hours actual time, proving herself a fast boat. She is one of the best mountain boats yet constructed, and we congratulate Captain McGarry, Mr. Hill, clerk, and the other owners, on their ownership of this safe and attractive boat. She will leave to-morrow morning for Benton.......The T. F. Eckert was pumping out the Paragon yesterday. She will be towed on this side, above the bridge, this morning. The underwriters will have a big sale of singed goods. Captain Darragh has received letters and telegrams expressing sympathy for his misfortune, and tendering services. This is highly gratifying, and shows that he is held in respect and enjoys the full confidence of his friends. We hope to see him running another boat soon.......Sam. Woods, formerly a second clerk on boats in the Atlantic and Mississippi Steamship Company, of this city, was, some years ago, called away to Pennsylvania by his father, to assist him in his oil business. Sam. dabbled in oil to some purpose, for his wealth is said to amount at the present time to $500,000. Butler is the chief seat of his operations, and he is often seen out driving his carriage and pair.

A ST. LOUIS dispatch, under date of the 9th, says:—The T. F. Eckert arrived at the wreck of the Paragon last night, and at once proceeded to put out the fire, and make preparations to raise the hull. She began pumping this morning, and the hull raised gradually all day, and will be afloat during the night. It was thought from what could be seen this afternoon that about one thousand tons of freight in the hold is but slightly damaged. From present appearances the loss to the underwriters will be much less than at first thought. The Hickory broke her shaft, yesterday, above Ste. Genevieve. She was en route up. The boat's captain is in town making arrangements for repairs. Last evening, as the City of Quincy was endeavoring to pass through the middle span of the bridge, she was blown by the severe gale eastward, and her chimneys, coming in contact with the arch, were knocked down and badly broken. The starboard chimney crushed through to the lower deck, and the larboard fell across the lower portion of the texas. The total damage will amount to $600. The Quincy is one of Commodore Davidson's New Orleans boats. She will be repaired at once, and leave for the South next week. Commodore Darius Hunkins, late President of the Keokuk Northern Line Packet Company, left for his home in Galena, Illinois, this evening. Capt. I. R. Whittaker, of the towboat Fearless, arrived from Pittsburgh yesterday. Clear and warm. River rising. Business fair.

On last Wednesday Mr. Alex. Fasten Your Horses.

Some years ago an ordinance was passed in Allegheny Councils imposing a penalty upon any person who would leave his horse or horses unattended or unfastened upon the public streets. This ordinance was enforced for a short time, since which no attention has been paid to it, but Mayor Phillips has notified his police to see that the ordinance is obeyed, and he is determined to enforce it. He is of the opinion that he can put a stop to the frequent runaways and runaway accidents by this means.

The Board of Health in Possible Danger.

If the Supreme Court should affirm the constitutionality of Bill 54, it is claimed that it will abolish the Board of Health of this city, by reason of the following powers conferred upon Councils, which are authorized "to make regulations to prevent the introduction of contagious diseases into the city, to make quarantine laws for that purpose and enforce the same within the corporate limits of the city. To erect, establish and regulate hospitals and provide for the government and support of the same. To make regulations to secure the general health of the city, and to remove and prevent nuisances."

New Masonic Lodges.

On Saturday R. W. G. M. Alfred R. Potter instituted in this city Oakland Lodge, No. 535, and Bellevue Lodge, No. 530, A. Y. M. The offices of Oakland lodge were filled as follows. Alfred R. Potter, Grand Master; Thomas R. Patton, Grand Senior Warden; James Herdman, Grand Junior Warden; James Shidle, Grand Treasurer; Joseph Eichbaum, Grand Secretary; James H. Hopkins, Grand Chaplain; W. B. Lupton and John H. Cooper, Grand Stewards; George T Whitney, Grand Pursuivant; Thomas C. Graham, Grand Tyler. The Chapter officers of Lodge No. 535, are W. C. Moreland, W. M.; James T. Fawcett, Sr. W., and A. D. McKee, Jr. W. Of Lodge No. 530: Lee S. Smith, W. M.; William R. Johnston, Sr. W.; and William I. Hammond, Jr. W.

The Thirty-Seventh Ward Still in the City.

The point has been raised that the Thirty-seventh ward is still in the city, because the Common Pleas Judges have not yet agreed upon the form of a decree to promulgate in the case recently brought before it, when Judge Kirkpatrick declared the unconstitutionality of the annexation of that ward. It is claimed that the opinion of the Court, before it makes the separation a finality, must be enforced by a decree duly drawn up and signed, that the opinion alone is of no effect, and that the Thirty-seventh ward is in the city until the decree is issued. This point was evolved from the inner consciousness of a legal gentleman, but it seems to lose its force when it is considered that if the consolidation of the Thirty-seventh ward was illegal in the first place it has never in fact been lawfully a part of the city, and that the opinion of the Court settles that matter finally. What can be the necessity for a decree of separation when there has never been in reality and law a consolidation?

New Police Regulations.

In order to increase the efficiency of the city police force Mayor McCarthy has decided to divide the city into three districts to be under the control of roving commissioners. They will have orders to go over their several districts and report any dereliction of duty on the part of any patrolman in such district, excess of duty, and keep a lookout generally on things. The first is the rural district, to which officer Sol. Coulson is appointed; second, the old city, J. C. Smith, and the third, which comprises the South Side, will be looked after by Chas. Havis. Eleven men are also to be taken from the regular force and assigned to duty in the old city district, but none of them are to have any regular beat, the object being to have them so placed as to be readily called upon in case of an emergency. The Chief of Police is also to have a clerk, as he has more work than he can do.

The Mayor on Saturday disposed of the following official cases: Officer Messer was suspended for five days for failing to report a robbery to his Lieutenant. Officer Mack, for sleeping at his post, was dismissed from the force. Officer Herman Zeidel, for neglect of duty, was dismissed, being the third offense. Officer Early, who was charged with opening store doors, informing proprietors of his "discoveries," and soliciting pay for his vigilance, was also dismissed.

MOORHEAD'S MILL.

A Sudden Let-Down—No Cause Assigned.

On Saturday evening the workmen at Moorhead & Co.'s mill, at Soho, were considerably surprised at the announcement that the mill was to be closed, and that their services would not be needed on Monday. No reason was given for this suspension, and the workmen were at a loss to understand it, as it was supposed that matters were moving along in a comparatively harmonious manner. The whole works are shut down this time, the suspension being complete in every department. One of the men, from whom this information was obtained, told the writer that the workmen had no previous knowledge of the suspension, and were at a loss to account for it, but supposed it was on account of the puddlers' strike.

THE REFORM SCHOOL.

Trying to Worry Through Without that Appropriation—Trying to Borrow Money.

The Legislature at its last session failed to make an appropriation to complete the buildings for the Reform School at Morganza and as it is necessary to complete them as soon as possible, the board of managers are now having made out the necessary papers to apply to the Court of Washington county for authority to issue bonds to the amount of $165,000. To secure the bondholders, a mortgage upon the property will be given. It will require $81,000 to complete the buildings and the balance will be necessary to furnish them, and put everything in proper order. If the authority is granted, to issue the bonds, the Legislature will be asked to pay the intrest on them until the time when they fall due; by that time it is expected that the property now in use in Allegheny will have been sold, and the proceeds will be sufficient to redeem all of the bonds.

SNYDER & CO. VS. THE CITY.

Judge Stowe Refuses to Grant a Mandamus as Prayed For.

An opinion was delivered in the Common Pleas Court No. 1, on Saturday, by Judge Stowe, in the matter of the rising mains contract, upon which there has been a dispute on account of its having been let to Jared N. Brush & Co., M. Snyder & Co. contending that they were the lowest responsible bidders, and should have received the contract. The question turned on the meaning of the word "responsible," Snyder & Co. holding that it meant merely "pecuniary liability," while the otheir side maintained that it should be more liberally construed, and comprise skill, capability, moral obligations, habits, &c. With this view of the question, the city represented that it had good reason for not awarding the contract to N. Snyder & Co.

The late District Court, before which a preliminary hearing in the case was had some time ago, refused a mandamus, when proceedings were begun in the Common Pleas Court No. 1, which resulted in a decision as given by the former tribunal. Judge Stowe took the ground that in matters requiring investigation and the exercise of discretion on the part of the respondent, a mandamus would not lie, except from allegation and proof of fraud, and refused it upon this ground.

After delivering a lengthy opinion, the Court concluded as follows: In determining that the word responsible involves in cases like the present, an inquiry into matters other than such as are mere matters of pecuniary calculation, and that it properly includes the examination into moral qualities which necessarily go to make up the character of a man who is a proper person to have such a contract, in view of an honest and expeditious performance of his agreement, the case is brought directly within the line of the well settled law, which determines that wherever the act required to be done involves investigation, and the exercise of discretion and judgment, it cannot be reached by mandamus—at least in the absence of clear proof of fraud and bad faith.

In this view of the case we think the Water Committee ought to have given the contract (if to any of the bidders) to plaintiffs, but we see no evidence of fraud on their part, and are, therefore, compelled to refuse the mandamus as prayed for.

"GONE ARE THE GUESTS."

The Last of the Tea Drinkings—The Close of the Centennial Festivities—The Saturday Matinee—The Financial Outlook—Personalities.

The Centennial tea parties are now but pleasant memories. The last of the entertainments connected with the parties came off on Saturday, consisting of a grand matinee. As it was understood that there would be a grand terpischorean display, the interest in the matinee was widespread and the attendance was as large as at any previous entertainment. This large gathering, however, somewhat interfered with the carrying out of the programme, as arranged, because of the impossibility of finding room for the dancers. The platform had been cleared of all the tables except the National—but business was carried on there in a lively manner. About three o'clock the dancing was inaugurated—the "olde folkes" taking the floor to the almost entire exclusion of the children, whereat there were mutterings of revolt among the juveniles. The elders, however. disregarded these evidences of an approaching insurrection, but about half-past four o'clock the little folks gained the day and enjoyed half an hour's dancing—which was the most interesting feature of the occasion. Promptly at five o'clock the band, in a suggestive way, discoursed "Home Sweet Home," and the people accepted the admonition; in half an hour the hall was cleared, and the workmen were busily engaged in removing all traces of the Parties.

The Lucre Pocketed.

The pleasures of the parties have been discanted upon, and are yet so fresh in the minds of all who participated as to require no special mention here; suffice it to say that, socially, the parties proved successful even beyond anticipation, and financially, the results seem to have been equally satisfactory. It is estimated that the gross receipts will aggregate at least $8,500. The receipts from the tables have been reported as follows: National, $873.45; South Carolina, $374.20; Pennsylvania, $350.25; Virginia, $158.95; Connecticut, $237.40; New York, $243.46; New Jersey, $173.10; Georgia, $362.65; Delaware, $269.95; New Hampshire, $155.85; Maryland, $118.12; Rhode Island, $155.35; Massachusetts, $282.49; North Carolina, $148.65; Art Room, $45.28; Gipsey Camp, $23,50; total, $3,972.56.

It is calculated that the remainder of the amount estimated will come in from the sales of tickets, which have not yet been reported, and the receipts at the door. The largest return was on Friday night, when the receipts aggregated $3,200. From the accounts from the tables, it seems that the National carried the banner.

"Leaflets From Memory"

is what "Brown's young man," who was there, styled these impressive jottings as he handed them to us:

ALAS! Farewell.

"LOST to sight, to memory dear."

MRS. JONES promises another next year.

A FEW of the boys were down from Yale.

ROD. WISTAR handled the cash for Maryland.

CHARLIE LINFORD adorns his native State.

MISS CLARA GRAY did not like her fortune.

WILL. ADDISON sipped his at South Carolina.

ALEX. LAUGHLIN stood up nobly for Virginia.

THE beautiful face of Queen Elizabeth was missing.

STEWART BROWN appeared to like the "Old Dominion."

MAJOR FREW took charge of the ducats for Pennsylvania.

THE Misses Zug and Snyder were among the last to say farewell.

GENERAL AGENT RUBIE took his provender at the "Empire."

ROSS JOHNSTON will tell you how nice things were at Delaware.

SOME died game, and took in Giroflé-Girofla on Saturday night.

THE CANADIAN thought Miss Ormsby spent much time at the well.

F. V. McCANDLESS will press some palmetto leaves for souvenirs.

MR. BARNES attended to the general finances in true railroad style.

THE Misses O'Hara should have been there to add lustre to the galaxy.

LEW HUTCHINSON and Will. Wilkins were general in their attentions.

MRS. BISHOP SIMPSON was among the prominent guests from Philadelphia.

MRS. MAJOR McCANDLESS allowed Miss Lecept, the gipsy, to tell of her future.

WHARTON McKNIGHT wouldn't eat anything at any table but the "National."

LEE NICKLE's gold glassess and general attire suggested a very swell private Secretary.

GEORGE McBRIDE took it all in from an easy chair and talked pleasantly with his wife.

NATTIE HOLMES, Al. Long and Peters, of the Pan Handle were called "pretty boys."

JUDGE WILKINS looked down from his portrait as if shocked at the frivolities of the age.

MISS WELLS made a very pretty Quakeress, and her "off hour" came frequently.

THE little Indians who threw tea overboard didn't think their calling particularly exciting.

MR. AGNEW had the "boss" relic in the way of an elephant dating back to a prehistoric age.

THE fair ones thought George Hersh and Dan McKnight among the most gallant of the military.

GEORGE BLAIR was in the fullest dress; his buttons and studs were plain white—the correct thing.

MR. W. E. SCHMERTZ thinks as much of that very ancient bible as he does of his "Rosenthal."

DAL WILKINS was caught humming "Maryland, my Maryland." Comment is un-necessary.

THE small folks thought it was real mean that they didn't get a better show at the floor on Saturday.

E. D. SMITH of the Baltimore and Ohio and Senator Anderson took "a little some thing" at Jacob's well.

FRED KAY is proud of the name of the father of his country, but he will be questioned about that monopoly.

WOOD McKNIGHT rather favored the Virginia pearls, more especially the priceless one of the Old Dominion.

JOE RINEHART thinks the "Empire" was the nicest; in fact, he would have nothing to do with any other table.

PARK BELL took charge of the exchequer at the well during the matinee, and handled the spons with white kid gloves.

ED. YEAGER presided over the rhino for Georgia, and dished out the change with the alacrity of Barnum's cashier.

SOUTH CAROLINA had things gotten up in good style, two dusky servants with white aprons and Slosser himself.

IT IS wondered by some whether any matches were made; the numerous tete-tetes in the alcoves were very ominous.

SOME relics from the palace of the Cæsars and the baths of Nero were side by side with those of the young Republic.

MISS HARDING had hers told in French. The crowd around gazed curiously, and smiled when Miss Harding smiled.

CLIFF PHILLIPS had two "button holes," and ate pickles with his ice cream much to the astonishment of his fair friend.

MRS. McCLINTOCK disposed of her poultry, and the purchaser certainly knows they are not spring chickens by any means.

DARSIE BOULTON hovered about the Well a good deal. The last night he was brushing up his French in the Library room.

CAPT. DICK GRAY and Campbell Herron were among the older beaux, but they seemed to have a pretty good time for all that.

SOME of the fellows said they had just lunched when asked if they wouldn't take tea; they meant at home. Just think of it.

JACK BISSELL was cheated out of his dance. The "Queen City of the West" had to go home before Teorge began that waltz.

SUPERINTENDENT FULTON, of the P. C. S. L., took a turn at the "mazy," and one might have played chequers on his coat tail.

BRADY WILKINS came all the way from Washington to take tea; and even then didn't seem to favor any one of the "thirteen."

THE Greys weren't a bit airy, and the other boys thought they had just as much show with their white ties and "claw hammers."

MISS LIZZIE HAMILTON wore a stunning dress Friday night, and if there had been a Queen of beauty she might have received a crown.

THE panic was entirely forgotten when they were once inside the hall, and the gallants went their bottom dollar to please the fair ones.

ONE of the dancers from Allegheny said he would like to have put a head on Teorge when he began that distasteful "Home, Sweet Home."

DR. JOHN DICKSON had charge of the New York Bank, and made change with as much precision as if he had been doing up a professional cut.

THE "pink cheeks and young moustachios" from college thought the lemonade fearful wash, and had the audacity to suggest a "fly" in the beverage.

MISS HATTIE HAMILTON occupied the Gipsy camp at the matinee, but was discussing the merits of waterices instead of following the Gipsy vocation.

HARRY BROWN, of Philadelphia, carried his tile while he danced. Some of "plebs" thought that quite a new frill, but then it is the proper thing, you know.

MISS KATE HUTCHINSON presented "Bob" Miller with a wooden medal, and he looked as happy as a street gamin in a newly emptied sugar hogshead.

JIM MARSHALL carried his chapeau in his hands, but it is not definitely known whether he was attempting the new frill or not, as the hat was a brown one.

HARRY DARLINGTON sipped and sipped and sipped at South Carolina, and contended it was the very best in the house without even trying any other table.

THE Greys' ought to have given their right hand man, the "Doctor," a complimentary for the whole four; his familiar face was conspicuous for its absence.

JIM LONG smiled and smiled and smiled at the well; i. e. the Oriental princess would always set up the lemonade for him when he appeared to grow weary of the cash.

OF THE several lemonade Sellers, the one from the East End was most popular with the college boys. Billy Frew, Jr., especially, was very thirsty while she was on duty.

IT was whispered that the old pike used in "John Brown's raid" was only found lately in somebody's cellar. The management of the relic room will please rise and explain.

DURING the third fight Major McCandless came very near being shot (on the ear with a banana skin). The Major is pretty well satisfied whose fair hand fired that missile.

OFFICER TETLEY found a diamond pin at the "parties;" the owner soon turned up, however, and exclaimed, "Well, I declare! I never expected to see that pin again," and that was all.

IT WAS ascertained that Sam George, of the Farmers' Deposit will take a "nip" occasionally, but how could he resist when he had such bewitching beauties to fill up his glass at "The Well."

COMPANY "G" only wish they had the same feeding privileges every day. It was said they "called" often; but then it is only an uncharitable humanity that would suggest such baseness of the military.

BEVERLY socked the boys a dollar each for the dance until the requisite amount was obtained; a few of the Knights were well enough pleased to have been in the art gallery when that performance was going on.

FRED RINEHART counted the scip for Miss Stella on Friday night, but thinks making change for ten cent drinks from a cigar box not quite so agreeable as handling bills on the marble counter of the Dollar Bank.

Two of the revelers thought they would go to the "club" after Friday's sipping and have a quiet siesta over a cigar. The club room was locked, but in they must get; both scratched their heads, when one said give me a "leg," and in a few moments two "claw-hammers" might have been seen passing safely through an open window. THE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.

Co-operation of the Central Board of Education Requested.

At a meeting of the High School Committee of the Central Board of Education on Saturday, City Superintendent Luckey presented the following letter.

Mr. Geo. J. Luckey:

DEAR SIR:—We have had a number of interviews and some correspondence relative to the establishing of an industrial school in this city, by means of such plans as might be devised in concert with the Central Board of Education. I have brought the subject to the attention of the Directors of the Institute, and they have by resolution authorized me to correspond officially with you on the subject, and to pledge their co-operation in any plans we may arrange looking to the accomplishment of the object aimed at.

In order, therefore, that the subject may be brought into practical shape, I have the honor to suggest and request, that you lay the subject before the Central Board at an early day. As an aid to them I will further state I have had full correspondence and several interviews with the Governor and Chairman of the Legislative Committee before whom this subject would naturally come, and have every assurance that if we start such a school the State will pay in excess of the first outlay.

I may also state that in several conversations had in the Board of Directors of this Institute, the idea has uniformly prevailed, that the surplus profits of our expositions, and such machinery as we could obtain a gift of, would be used in supporting and furthering the interests of the Industrial School above suggested.

While this is true, we also think that as far as the Industrial School is concerned, it should apparently originate with, and be actually controlled, fully and absolutely, by the Central Board of Education, that we may obtain State aid from the $1,000,000 annually appropriated by the State for the public school system, and that it may be the beginning of a system of industrial education for the entire State.

Our Board has of late advertised for proposals looking to the location of buildings in which to hold an industrial exposition during the coming fall, and in reply have had our attention attracted to several admirably located sites within the city limits, some of which have impressed me as being very particularly adapted to the use of such a school as we contemplate, and in a shape that will occasion no outlay for changes for our proposed purpose. In short, I feel confident such a school, with moderate outlay, could be placed in our midst in full operation within the current year.

Any further information that may be desired as to the plans of our Board or of any kind that I may be possessed of that will contribute to the furtherance of the object above mentioned, I will most cheerfully furnish. Very respectfully,

J. VANNOTE.

The letter was the subject of debate for a while but it was finally resolved to defer action until a future meeting. The matter will likely be laid before the Central Board to-morrow.

AMUSEMENTS.

Pittsburgh Opera House.

The engagement of Mr. John T. Raymond as Col. Mulberry Sellers in Mark Twain's "Gilded Age" commences to-night, and that it will be a successful one we have no doubt, for it has received popular approval and drawn large audiences in every city it has been produced.

In speaking of the drama the New York Times says it is "a play dealing with possible incidents of American life, and in which none but American characters move. We have recorded so many unsuccessful efforts to produce a passable piece of this sort, that we confess to having awaited Mr. Twain's performance with a very slight anticipation of its excellence. It disappointed us, we are free to say, most agreeably. The comicalities of Colonel Sellers kept the spectators merry throughout the whole four acts. Mr. John Raymond assumed this role with an earnestness which insured his success. He evidently deceived himself with his splendid projects more thoroughly than he managed to deceive the most credulous of his listeners, and the perfect heartiness of all his speeches, together with the absence of self-conciousness in his wildest eccentricities, rendered his personation as artistic as it was striking. The merriment was loud and continuous."

In addition to the support by the members of the company, Mr. S. W. Glenn has been specially engaged to sustain the role of District Attorney. A souvenir from Col. Sellers will be presented to each lady visiting the Opera House on Wednesday evening, and it is also announced that at each performance the theatre will be highly perfumed.

Trimble's Varieties.

The novelties presented by Mr. Aims receive a strong reinforcement this week in the persons of Charles and Carrie Austin, the Zouave drill artists, Billy Devere and Nellie Vincent, both vocalists, H. F. Mudge, song and dance artist, and a number of others. The popular Ware combination, owing to its immense success last week, has been re-engaged for another week.

Germania Orchestra.

The ninth of the Germania Orchestra concerts is announced for next Friday afternoon at Library Hall. Mr. John J. Benitz, one of the best known singers in Pittsburgh, is on the programme for two performances. The selections are all choice, and from the best composers.

SUNDAY MORNING CASES.

Administering Justice in the Diamond Alley Court.

Mayor McCarthy's Sunday morning reception at the Diamond alley Police Station was well attended, the number of guests being larger than usual, the result of liberal Saturday night potations. James Finn, Pat Ryan and Samuel Scott were sentenced to assist for thirty days in supplying barrels to the spring trade. Peter Herrington and Tom Irwin, being considered more efficient at that work, got sixty days. Chas. Jones being irreverently disposed, interrupted the religious services at the Young Men's Home on Saturday night, and was arrested by officer Wilkison. Charles will assist in the services at Claremont for the next twenty days. When officer Henry Grispin was in the act of arresting Thomas Blind he was interfered with by Oscar Jackson, but the patrolman was not disposed to suffer an officious individual to interrupt him, and he gobbled them both. At the hearing Jackson was fined $25 and costs and Blind $5. Both the amounts were paid and the men set free.

John McGurk lives in Cherry alley, and his nephew, Ed. Wallace, boards, or did board with him, for it is not likely he does now. On Saturday night Edward went home and commenced arguing to the effect that McGurk did not contribute his share to the domestic exchequer. The argument was not pleasing to the latter, and he ordered Wallace to leave the house. Instead of doing so he gathered up an old boot and hit McGurk on the nose with it, injuring that member to such an extent that it may possibly interfere hereafter with his sense of smell. With his feelings badly hurt McGurk went to Captain Irwin, at the Central Police station, and was informing him of the circumstances of the affair when Wallace came prancing in too. He candidly acknowledged having caressed his uncle's proboscis with a boot, and the confession secured him admittance to one of the cages. McGurk was also held, and at the morning hearing the story was related to the Mayor, who fined Wallace five dollars and discharged McGurk.

The ninth annual meeting of the contributors to the Homeopathic Hospital and Dispensary will be held on Tuesday, April 13, at three o'clock P. M. Annual reports will be presented, and an address suitable to the occasion, made. Friends of the institution are invited.

The question of most interest to those who have paid the "extra" is how they can get it back again.

····As the costumes of the beautiful Quakeresses and others were so elaborately described in the Evening Leader, a word will here suffice.—Leader. And that word should have been an acknowledgment of having stolen bodily, each day, from the GAZETTE the "elaborate" descriptions referred to; but then if the Leader commenced to give credit for what it is in the daily habit of stealing from other papers, such a streak of honesty would be fatal to its high flown and hypocritical pretence of enterprise in news gathering.

····That association with the boss imbecile of the Leader is not only calculated to but does destroy the mental balance of the men on that journal, we submit as proof the following confession of one of its staff, clipped from the Leader of Sunday, April 4: "The man who commenced this department three years ago, was at that time a burning mountain of humor. Now he is extinct. Mentally dead. His mind is a blank. He started out with brilliant hopes of making a permanent reputation as a writer of first class idiotic paragraphs. He became not an idiot, who is laughable, but an imbecile, who is to be pitied." And he has a permanent "sit" on the Leader.

····The exports of petroleum from New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore to Europe for the week ending April 5th amount in crude equivalent to 121,358 barrels, a daily average of 17,337 barrels. The vessels loading and chartered to load at these ports, same date, had a capacity for carrying 304,144 barrels of crude equivalent. From the above it will be seen, by those who take account of petroleum exports, that they are rapidly increasing, not only in actual clearances, but in charters of vessels. The total exports from these ports from January 1st to April 5th this year amount in crude equivalent to 960,888 barrels, as against 1,247,870 barrels same time last year.

····"YOUNG FOLKS' MONTHLY, published by Mr. H. N. J. Lewis, Chicago, ranks among the very best magazines of its class in the country. It is entirely different from any other in style and contents, being intended for both city and country readers in all parts of the land, and since the change in form and name it has become immensely popular with all young folks—boys and girls. It is handsomely illustrated, and the reading matter is tastefully arranged under appropriate headings, such as "Life Pictures," "Sketch Book," "Adventure," "The Hunter," "Insect World," "Naturalist," "Our Study," "The Essayist," "The Humorist," "The Critic," "Biography," "History," "The Traveler," "At Home," "Housekeeper," "The Querist," "The Stage," "Rural Topics," "The Florist," "Little Stones," "Centre Table," "Pastime," "The Puzzler," &c., &c. $1.00 vs. 35 cents.

At the Centennial you pay one dollar for a meal, while a meal every whit as good, carefully and cleanly prepared, can be had at S. T. Niel's Dining Rooms, Lafayette Hall, 63 Wood street, for thirty-five cents. Many are inclined to disbelieve this, thinking that a 35c meal, must be an interior one, whereas these same meals are equal in every respect to those of more aristocratic establishments at double the price. No extra charges for French Cookery and highfalutin names of dishes served.

THAT MANDAMUS.

Councils File two Answers on Saturday.

On last Saturday City Attorney Bigelow filed two answers to the alternative mandamus granted on Councils by the Common Pleas Court No. 2, requiring them to administer the oath of office to Christopher Magee as Mayor of the city of Pittsburgh, or show cause why they should not do so. President Gross answered for a majority of Councils, setting forth the election of Wm. C. McCarthy, the receival of his certificate of election, the administering the oath of office to him, the giving of his bond, the opinion of the Attorney General as to its legality, and the general acquiescence of the people of the city and the State in the election of 1874.

The minority portion of the members of Councils answer as follows: The undersigned defendants to the mandamus issued in the above case, respectfully return.

That they are members of the Councils of the City of Pittsburgh, and that they are willing to meet in joint session of said Councils and administer to the said relator the oath of office as Mayor of said city.

BROKE JAIL.

Four Prisoners Escape—Another Delegation Lodged in the Penitentiary and Work House.

On Friday morning the town of Meadville, Crawford county, was thrown into considerable excitement by four prisoners escaping from their jail. It appears that four prisoners, one of whom had been convicted of burglary and the other three of riot, were confined together in a cell in the second story of the jail, awaiting sentence. By some means they obtained an old iron stove poker, and by working all Thursday night succeeded in loosening a large stone in the wall of their cell near the ceiling on the side next to the public street, and then through their united efforts pushed it out on the street. They then crawled through the hole,—it was about seven o'clock on Friday morning—and jumped down on the street and escaped. They were seen by several citizens, but were not molested by them. Soon after a turnkey discovered that they were gone, and gave the alarm, but it was then too late.

On Saturday evening the Sheriff with three deputies took ten of the prisoners in jail, who were sentenced, one for five years one for three years, and the three for one year in the Penitentiary and five for terms, from six months to a year in the Workhouse, and started for Allegheny, where he arrived on Saturday evening and with the assistance of officer Frost safely landed five prisoners in the Penitentiary and the other five who were intended for the Workhouse, in the lock-up, yesterday morning they were removed to their destination.

A Tonic of Rare Merit.

There are many tonics, but few indeed which produce any other effect than artificial stimulation of the appetite. This, so far from being a benefit, is a positive detriment, if the digestive organs are weak, because it induces the patient to eat more than the semi-paralyzed stomach can act upon, and aggravates indigestion. There is, however, a tonic which possesses the rare merit of imparting both vigor and regularity to the operations of nutrition. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters provoke a wholesome appetite, because they enable the stomach to dispose of what it receives with such healthful rapidity that at the proper time for meals it is not torpid from undigested matter, but craves its timely sustenance. It is the very fact that it facilitates digestion that renders the national stomachic such a powerful coadjutor of nature in instituting those recuperative processes which result in the recovery of the general health. Uninterrupted, vigorous action of the physical machinery inevitably results from the use of this supreme invigorant and alterative.
